Descendants of Aaron Burleson, Jr.

Generation No. 1

1. AARON¹ BURLESON, JR. was born 1782 in Buncombe County, North Carolina, and died 1858. He married DEBORAH JACKSON.

Notes for AARON BURLESON, JR.:

Believed to have been born in Buncombe County, North Carolina and later moved to Charleston, South Carolina. He married Deborah Jackson and they had four children. They were married in either Warren or Greene County, Georgia in 1804-1806. They sold their land in Georgia in 1810 and moved to Conecuh County, Alabama. Aaron was in the war of 1812 from 1814 to March 1815 at St. Tammany Parrish, Louisiana. The family was listed in the 1820 census of Conecuh County, Alabama and the 1830 census of Pike County, Alabama. They were in Varbour County, Alabama by 1833 where Aaron and his three sons fought in the Creek Indian War 1836-37. In June 1851 Aaron was in Copiah County, Mississippi. In December of 1856, the family was in Covington County, Alabama, where the last record of Aaron was found in September 1857.

Generation No. 3

5. SIMEON WILDER³ BURLESON (*SEABORN J.*², *AARON*¹) was born September 15, 1845 in Mt. Andrew, Barbour County, Alabama, and died February 05, 1907 in Boggy (?), Walton County, Florida. He married REBECCA ANN BOLTON December 27, 1867 in Escambia County, Florida. She was born May 06, 1846, and died September 1938.

Notes for SIMEON WILDER BURLESON:

Was the eighth child of nine (3 sisters & 6 brothers). The family apparently moved from Georgia to Alabama sometime between 1841 and 1844 because the three youngest were born in Mt Andrew. Simeon served in the civil war and settled in Camp Walton, ?, after the war. The geological survey map shows the Burleson property next to Brooks Landing in 1870.

Simeon married Rebecca Ann Bolton in Escambia County Florida by notary public Dennis Wolfe. Simeon was 23 and Rebecca was 19. They had eleven children with four dying in childhood. During their marriage they lived in Camp Walton, (?), Blackwater, (?) (Milton Area), Mary Ester, (?), and Rocky Bayou on Sarah Ann Bayou. Simeon was a carpenter and boat builder, and he also had a store on the point, near his boat dock on Sarah Ann Bayou. He homesteaded there in 1894 and built Rebecca a two story house with porches all around it. This porch figured prominently in the courting of their three daughters. As the girls reached marrying age their beaus came to call on Sunday afternoons and they sat with the family on the shady side of the porch. Their courting took place as they walked around the porch to where the cedar water bucket stood on the shelf by the kitchen door. Buried at the old Rocky Cemetery.

Notes for REBECCA ANN BOLTON:

After Simeon's death in 1907, Rebecca received her Civil War pension until she died in 1938. Her home that Simeon built for her burned in 1911, and her son-in-law, Garner, moved the store building up from the point, and she lived in it until 1930, when Jim and Irene who lived next door to her took her to live with them. Jim was her oldest son.

VIII. Jane Burleson and Thomas Jefferson Samford

- A. William Flewellen 3 Oct 1817(or18) - 4 July 1894
- B. Frances Moore 7 Feb 1826 - 31 Aug 1865

NOTE; Only two children known at this time.

The Samford family is quite extensive and after more complete data is obtained it will be included.

This short summary is being compiled for the Burleson Family Reunion to be held on June 5, 1976 at Prien Lake, Lake Charles, Louisiana. This is not intended to be a complete inventory of the past of the family but to give each person some idea of how they came to be a member of the Burleson clan.

Much work must be done to even complete a small segment of the family and hopefully everyone will assist in compiling this study.

One thing that every Burleson should remember is that all Burlesons are related so if you meet someone who is a Burleson you can call him cousin without fear.

As of this time the eldest of the descendants of Elias Burleson and Sarah Goff is Charles Marshall Burleson of Petal, Mississippi who was 84 on 13 January 1976. He and his lovely wife, Betty Hartfield, celebrated their 60th Wedding Anniversary on 24 November 1975.

The youngest member of our particular group, if one hasn't been born since 10 February 1976, is Cynthia Jean Ashley, daughter of David W. Ashley and Rebekah Jean Green, granddaughter of Barbara Jean Burleson, great-granddaughter of Carol C. Burleson, g-g Granddaughter of Charles Edward Burleson, g-g-g-granddaughter of Moses Bunyan Burleson, g-g-g-g-granddaughter of Elias Burleson, g-g-g-g-g-granddaughter of Aaron Burleson, g-g-g-g-g-g-granddaughter of Jesse Burleson, g-g-g-g-g-g-g-granddaughter of Aaron Burleson I (the first of our clan to come to North America. How is that for 10 generations.

Last year a collection was made by the descendants of Moses Bunyan Burleson and Charles Edward Burleson to properly mark their final resting place at the Burleson Cemetery, Prien Lake, Lake Charles, Louisiana. Sufficient funds were collected and their graves are marked with their names and dates of birth and death.

Please send any information on any Burleson family members. Of real interest to our group are descendants of Jesse Burleson but since it is hard to tell a descendant of Jesse from a descendant of Aaron, Thomas or etc. at this point all leads will be appreciated.

Does anyone know where Allen Fairbanks Burleson is buried?
Does anyone know the date of marriage of Charles Edward Burleson and Eudolie "Dolly" Duhon?

To all of those who were unable to attend the reunion we sincerely hope that at the next one you will be able to meet with your kinsmen.

A SHORT SHORT BACKGROUND OF THE BURLESON FAMILY

The Burleson family evidently came to the colonies from Wales, Great Britian. Two are known to have left the mother country and settled in the New World.

First to come was Sir Edward Burleson about 1715. He settled in the Connecticut-Vermont area and was the sire of all the yankee group. About ten years later the second Burleson arrived. Aaron is believed to be either the brother or cousin of Edward and came to find him but as luck would have it, Aaron landed in Maryland and moved into North Carolina and never found his kinsman.

According to Rufus C. Burleson, it wasn't until the closing days of the War Between the States at Petersburg, Va. that the two separate branches of the families were to meet. Evidently the Edward Burleson clan have always remained in the north and the Aaron clan, with few exceptions, have stayed south of the Mason-Dixon Line. Each of the two groups moved west with each wave of migration.

Little is known to me of the yankee group other than they now populate the northern portion of the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The children of Aaron, belived to be seven sons and five daughters, must have been hardy and adventurous souls. There is some evidence, but I do not have the documented data, that all seven sons served in the Revolutionary War with only three surviving that war, (Aaron II, Thomas and Jesse). Thomas evidently remained in North Carolina and probably most of the Burlesons presently residing there are from this group. Aaron II was killed in what is now East Tennessee about 1784-85 by Indians. Jesse moved into southeast Georgia where he died in 1822(?).

One of the four who did not survive the Revolutionary War was said to have been killed by the British while on leave to get married, so evidently he was never married. It is probable that the other three were married and left descendants.

Aaron II's family moved west and south into Tennessee, Alabama and finally into Texas in the early 1830's. Members of this group remained at various locations on the migration route with a heavy concentration in the North Alabama area and with the greatest number throughout the State of Texas. Several of Aaron II's sons and grandsons served with distinction in the War of 1812. And one grandson was a leader in the Texas Revolution, General Edward Burleson. Edward was later Vice-President of the Republic of Texas and ran for President but was defeated (some say he was defeated because Sam Houston supported his opponent). Albert S. Burleson, grandson of General Edward Burleson, served as Postmaster of the United States in the administration of Woodrow Wilson. The number of descendants of Aaron II are impossible to estimate but they must number in the ten's of thousands.

Jesse Burleson is said to have traveled from North Carolina to what is now Mobile, Alabama about 1777 or 1778 and there married Elizabeth Clifton. He brought his bride back to North Carolina. Can you imagine the trip from North Carolina to Mobile and back in the days when there were no roads and only a few settlements!

After the Revolutionary War, probably about 1788-1790, Jesse moved with his family to southeast Georgia. Some years ago, 1904, Jesse Burleson's Bible in which he recorded the births of his children and was said to have been carried by him during the Revolutionary War was still in the possession of one of his great granddaughters, Mrs. Emma Catherine Clark Williams of Mobile, Alabama.

Of the eight children of Jesse Burleson, I know of only two, Aaron the eldest and Jane the youngest, that have left records that are available to me.

Jane Burleson married Thomas Jefferson Samford (Stamford) of South Carolina. This was the beginning of the Samford family since her husband changed his name from Stamford due to the break with his family when he renounced the faith of his forebearers and allied himself with the Methodist Church. It was from this group that the Samford family of Alabama traces its roots. One of the grandsons of Thomas and Jane Samford, William James Samford, served as Governor of Alabama in 1900 failing to complete his term of office due to his death in June 1901. A granddaughter, Elizabeth Jane Samford married Thomas Pope Fullilove of Shreveport, Louisiana and many of the Fullilove family living in the Shreveport area today are descendants of this union.

Aaron Burleson (18 July 1779 - Dec 1849) married Mary Ann Marie Camp and migrated to Jackson County, Mississippi before 1830. Aaron evidently served in the War of 1812 and probably secured a land grant above Scranton, Mississippi (Scranton later changed its name to Pascagoula). The old homestead has been located but nothing remains except the old cemetery which is completely void of markers.

Records in Jackson County, Mississippi have proven almost impossible to secure due to a fire at the courthouse in 1875. Therefore much of the history in this area must be pieced together from odd facts.

Aaron and Mary evidently had four children, one daughter and three sons. The children, with the exception of Issac, remained in Jackson County. Issac moved to Texas about 1848-1849. Sarah married Ebenezer Clark and raised a large family in Jackson County and evidently lived on the old home place after the death of Aaron in December 1849. Issac and Sarah are known to be children of Aaron through records of the Daughters of the American Revolution but no documentation as to the names of the other two sons have appeared.

It is believed that Elias and Iziah were the other children of Aaron. Their location, age, etc. indicated that there can be no doubt of their relationship to Aaron. There is no evidence that Iziah ever married and other than the 1850 census of Jackson County his name doesn't present itself.

Elias, who is considered a son of Aaron, married Sarah Goff (who evidently was either a sister or cousin of the wife of Issac, Eliza Goff). The information concerning Elias and Sarah is extremely meager. Through census records it would appear that Elias was born about 1814 in Georgia. He appears in the 1860 census but not in the 1870 census so it can be assumed that he died sometime between 1860 and 1870. There is a record of E. Burleson enlisting for a short period of time in the Confederate Army in 1864 from Jackson County and since he is the only Burleson with a first name of E ever appearing in Jackson County it could be assumed that at about the age of 50 he served for a short period of time.

Elias and Sarah evidently had 10 children. With the death of the father, uneasy times just after the end of the War Between the States and opening of new timber areas this family began to move out of Jackson County.

Edward H. (a veteran of the War Between the States) and Aaron Jefferson moved to Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana about 1868-1870. After the death of Sarah (1870-1875?) their sister Selima joined them about 1873-1874. Later, about 1884, Moses Bunyan Burleson and his family also joined them. Javen Pierce Burleson, twin brother of Moses, moved to Perry County, Mississippi about 1884. The fate of the other children is totally unknown, except that Cassandra married Emanuel H. Nelson (Dr.?) in Jackson County on 12 July 1876.

With the move to Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana the families, for the most part, seem to settle down. Again in Calcasieu Parish records are difficult to trace since the courthouse was destroyed by a fire in 1910.

Below I have attempted to set in family order what I know as of this date of the descendants of Jesse Burleson. Only those family members born before 1900 are included since to bring it up to date would be impossible since the inventory is still taking place.

A Brief Outline of the Lake Charles-Sulphur Area Burlesons

The information, at this point in time, is based partially on fact and in some cases assumptions based on records currently available. In the future when a more indepth study is made, more data will be available to present a more systematic account of the Burleson Family.

Aaron Burleson arrived in North Carolina about 1725 after leaving Durham, England. He evidently settled in the western area of that state near what is today Asheville, North Carolina. Information concerning his family is extremely limited but it is known that he had at least seven sons. These seven sons joined the Revolutionary Army and fought against the British. Four of the brothers were killed, three in action and one evidently while on leave to get married, by the British.

Those that survived the Revolutionary War were Aaron, David and Jesse. The names of the others at this time are not known.

Jesse appears to be the one who is responsible for the group that finally settled in Southwest Louisiana

Jesse Burleson (1751-1822)

Jesse was born in Buncombe County, North Carolina about 1751 and married Elizabeth Clifton, born about 1750 in Mobile, Alabama, sometime before 1779. They had at least eight children:

Aaron	18 July 1779 - Dec 1849
Sarah	25 Oct 1781
Elizabeth	26 Nov 1783
Daniel	16 Oct 1785
Salathial	30 Oct 1787
Isaac	19 Apr 1790
William	25 Jan 1791
Jane	25 Aug 1795 - 16 July 1874 m Rev Thomas Samford

The family evidently moved into the State of Georgia. Jesse died in Georgia about 1822, the exact date and location is not known. His wife died about 1823 in Georgia.

No records has been located for any of the children at this point other than Aaron and Jane.

Aaron married Mary Ann Maria Camp (born 1789) sometime before 1811. His wife was according to some recores was born in Georgia and other state in Germany, Alabama. Aaron and his family moved to Jackson County, Mississippi sometime before 1830. Aaron died in Jackson County in December 1849 of "old age" and his wife died at Three Rivers, Jackson County, Mississippi in 1881 at the age of 92. Records indicate that Jesse was a veteran of the War of 1812.

Two of the children of this marriage are known:

Isaac b 4 January 1811 d 9 February 1860 married Eliza Goff 14 November 1833 moved to Texas, died in Brazos County, Texas on 9 February 1860.

Sarah b 7 October 1812, married Ebenezer Clark 7 October 1828, lived in Jackson County, Mississippi and died in Mobile, Alabama in 1883.

It is also believed that one child was named:

Elias b about 1814

It is from Elias Burleson that we can definitely trace back our line, at this time.

Elias Burleson was born in Georgia about 1814 and married Sarah (last name not known) who was born about 1818 in Mississippi. The date of death for Elias and Sarah are not known at this time, but Elias died after the 1860 census and Sarah after the 1870 census. Evidently, they were married between 1840 and 1842.

Children of this marriage as close as can be determined were:

1. Susan - b about 1842
2. Daniel - b about 1844
3. Edward - b about 1845 (never married)
4. Mary S - b about 1847
5. Martha - b about 1849
6. Aaron Jefferson - b 1850 d 1 February 1922
 - (1) Minerva E. Ryan b 14 May 1855 d 23 March 1911 married about 1875
 - (2) Etta Eastworth of Thibodeaux married 12 September 1915
7. Javen Pierce - b about 1851
Frances Delilah Gilley married 31 March 1878
8. Moses Bunyan - b 23 November 1853 d 3 March 1885
 - (1) Ann Elizabeth Garner - b 25 January 1857 d 9 April 1932 married 24 December 1874
9. Casander - b about 1852 or 1855
 - (1) Emanuel H. (or W) Nelson, married 12 July 1876
10. Selima (Selena) b 15 October 1854 d 6 December 1883
 - (1) James Ira Ryan b 13 August 1852 d 17 May 1886, married 1875

Aaron Jefferson (A.J.) and Selima (Selena) married children of Jacob Ryan, Jr. of Lake Charles.

Edward was evidently a veteran of the War Between the States. He lived his last years in an old soldiers home, probably in Mississippi.

A. J., Edward and Selima evidently moved to Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana between 1870 and 1875.

Mosey Bunyan and Ann Elizabeth Garner of Mobile, Alabama moved from Jackson County, Mississippi to Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana between 1882 and 1886.

Mobile, Alabama records indicate that Moses and Ann^{were} not married there. They evidently were married in Jackson County, Mississippi where all records were destroyed in 1875 - a year after their marriage.

On June 13, 1975, I visited Starks, Louisiana and located Mabel Burch and Margaret Hazel Burch Kezeler, granddaughters of Aaron Jefferson Burleson. These two gracious ladies have a wealth of information on their branch of the Burleson clan.

Due to the limited time and my inability to get everything right, the below listing, I am sure, is considerable inaccurate. A return visit is planned so I can try to get everything straight.

Using the information from the Burch sisters and some records listed in the Ryan family study, the following information concerning the children of Aaron Jefferson Burleson and Minerva E. Ryan are:

1. Ora b about 1876, married Henry Jerue
 2. Arthur Reuben b 30 July 1879 d 20 August 1948
 3. Walter b September 1879, married (1) Minnie Rainwater of DeQuincy,
(2) Lottie Quinn of DeQuincy
 4. Earnest b after 1880, married (1) Susan Phillips
 5. Stella Annie b 12 May 1883 d 25 July 1930, married James Edward Burch
 6. Beulah b ? married Sam Day of Rollin Fork, Mississippi
 7. Fletcher b Dec 1886 d 19 September 1916 never married.
- Three children are indicated by the Ryan family as not surviving early childhood.
8. George b ? infant
 9. Edward b ? d infant
 10. Jennie b ? d 7 months

Information that is presently being sought:

1. Date of marriage of Chalres Edward Burleson and Eudolie (Dolly) Duhon
2. Any leads to children of Elias and Sarah Burleson other than Moses Bunyan, Aaron Jefferson and Selima.
3. Date of death of Bunyan Burleson, infant son of Charles Edward Burleson and place of burial.
4. Place of burial of Allen Fairbanks Burleson
5. Any leads to Javan Burleson family that stayed in Mississippi
6. Any information on Edward (b-about 1845)

Vera Burleson Savant has located the Bible of Moses Bunyan Burleson and Ann Elizabeth Garner. It contains the following information:

Moses Bunyan Burleson b 28 November 1853 d 3 May 1886
Ann Elizabeth Garner b 25 January 1857 d 9 April 1932
Moses Bunyan Burleson married Ann Elizabeth Garner 24 December 1874

Children:

1. Ann Amealyear Burleson b 11 October 1875 d 27 December 1969
2. Allen Fairbanks Burleson b 11 February 1877 d 27 January 1922
3. Charles Edward Burleson b 6 April 1879 d 24 February 1947
4. George Lewis Burleson b 22 August 1882 d 9 February 1964

Ann Elizabeth Garner Burleson married C. Pertusi Weschot 11 January 1887

C. Pertusi Weschot b 15 August 1856

NOTE: On Saturday, August 2, 1975 the following was discovered - after the preceeding was typed:

The family of Javen Pierce Burleson is residing in Hattiesburg, Mississippi. His son, Charles Marshall Burleson, and two daughters, Sarah Elizabeth Burleson Lee and Edna Agnes Burleson, are still living.

Marshall indicated that : (1) Elias wife's last name was Goff. (the same last name as Isaac Burleson's wife), (2) Javen Pierce and Moses Bunyan (Bunny) were twins.

One problem is that the bible of Moses Bunyan and Ann Elizabeth Burleson indicates his date of birth as 28 November 1853 and Javen Pierce's date of birth as shown on his tombstone is 23 November 1852. If they were twins, one of the year dates is incorrect.

Javen P. left Jackson County in 1884 to move to the Hattiesburg area about the same time as Moses Bunyan left to move to Calcasieu Parish.

Jesse Burleson is said to have traveled from North Carolina to what is now Mobile, Alabama about 1777 or 1778 and there married Elizabeth Clifton. He brought his bride back to North Carolina. Can you imagine the trip from North Carolina to Mobile and back in the days when there were no roads and only a few settlements!

After the Revolutionary War, probably about 1788-1790, Jesse moved with his family to southeast Georgia. Some years ago, 1904, Jesse Burleson's Bible in which he recorded the births of his children and was said to have been carried by him during the Revolutionary War was still in the possession of one of his great granddaughters, Mrs. Emma Catherine Clark Williams of Mobile, Alabama.

Of the eight children of Jesse Burleson, I know of only two, Aaron the eldest and Jane the youngest, that have left records that are available to me.

Jane Burleson married Thomas Jefferson Samford (Stamford) of South Carolina. This was the beginning of the Samford family since her husband changed his name from Stamford due to the break with his family when he renounced the faith of his forebearers and allied himself with the Methodist Church. It was from this group that the Samford family of Alabama traces its roots. One of the grandsons of Thomas and Jane Samford, William James Samford, served as Governor of Alabama in 1900 failing to complete his term of office due to his death in June 1901. A granddaughter, Elizabeth Jane Samford married Thomas Pope Fullilove of Shreveport, Louisiana and many of the Fullilove family living in the Shreveport area today are descendants of this union.

Aaron Burleson (18 July 1779 - Dec 1849) married Mary Ann Marie Camp and migrated to Jackson County, Mississippi before 1830. Aaron evidently served in the War of 1812 and probably secured a land grant above Scranton, Mississippi (Scranton later changed its name to Pascagoula). The old homesite has been located but nothing remains except the old cemetery which is completely void of markers.

Records in Jackson County, Mississippi have proven almost impossible to secure due to a fire at the courthouse in 1875. Therefore much of the history in this area must be pieced together from odd facts.

Aaron and Mary evidently had four children, one daughter and three sons. The children, with the exception of Issac, remained in Jackson County. Issac moved to Texas about 1848-1849. Sarah married Ebenezer Clark and raised a large family in Jackson County and evidently lived on the old home place after the death of Aaron in December 1849. Issac and Sarah are known to be children of Aaron through records of the Daughters of the American Revolution but no documentation as to the names of the other two sons have appeared.

It is believed that Elias and Izhiah were the other children of Aaron. Their location, age, etc. indicated that there can be no doubt of their relationship to Aaron. There is no evidence that Izhiah ever married and other than the 1850 census of Jackson County his name doesn't present itself.

Ebenezer and Sarah BURLESON CLARK, a Narrative

Ebenezer CLARK was born in New York 1 January, 1800 and Sarah BURLESON was born "near Augusta" Georgia 7 October, 1812. Sarah was six years old when she moved with her brothers, sisters, and parents, Aaron and Mary Ann-Marie CAMP BURLESON from Georgia to the village of Mobile, Alabama, in 1818.

In the early 1820's Ebenezer CLARK moved to Mobile, where he established an office and from whence he commenced his shipbuilding operation near Pascagoula, Mississippi. His shipbuilding yard was located at Three Rivers, about six miles above Moss Point, Mississippi, and was the first shipyard on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

We wish we knew how Sarah BURLESON met Ebenezer CLARK. Certainly the young, beautiful, educated Sarah BURLESON must have attracted the attention of many of the young men of Mobile, and certainly the handsome young bachelor from New York would have been considered quite a "catch" by ~~for~~ many of Mobile's young ladies. We do know that they were married in Mobile 7 October, 1828 on Sarah's 16th birthday. Their first ten children were born in Mobile. Ebenezer ~~was~~ established his shipyard October, 1838, in Mississippi on what became known as Clark's Bayou, but the CLARK family did not move to that place from Mobile until about 1845 (Lolla was born in Mobile ca 1844 and Emma was born at Clark's Bayou 2 March, 1846). Ebenezer maintained offices in Mobile and at Clark's Bayou and advertised in the Mobile "Register" his capability of building all kinds of ships from 100 to 200 tons as well as repairing all kinds of ships, boats, barges, etc. (24 May, 1852).

TAPE RECORDING OF RICHARD BURLESON, ON THE BURLESON FAMILY HISTORY

Howard, I want to thank you for answering my correspondence so quickly. One of the things I find in writing to people is the fact that their intentions are good, but they put it off and finally lose the letter and forget about it, and you hate to rewrite them, but its unfortunate that people are that way. Howard, and I will address you that way, and for some reason known only to my family, I am called by my middle name, Richard.

I will attempt to give you a little background of myself, before going any further, but first let me state what my intentions are for undertaking a project of this type.

I started approximately a year and a half or two years ago to do a short study on the Burleson, because I had no idea from whence the Burleson family came, or how they arrived in Southwest La. where I was raised, and after tracking back to some extent, I became interested in the overall Burleson family and have been attempting to read and gather as much data as possible and felt that possibly one of the things that could be done would be to try to ascertain and contact and get as much information as possible on the descendants of Jesse Burleson, our common ancestor who was of course, the son of Aaron Burleson the first, who migrated to this country, from all indication, from Wales, in the British Empire. That of course, to trace all the descendants of Jesse Burleson is a relatively impossible task, so the next step down the line would be the possibilities of tracking his eldest son, Aaron Burleson, who was born in 1779 and there discovered that there was a relatively small family of only six children, and two of those having died rather young, and never married, one was about three years old and the other about nine or ten years old. Therefore, it seemed at least possible to do it. So I started digging, inasmuch information as was had with our particular clan, which is by the way very nominal information, I started going back, and I got to Jackson County, Miss. and I ran into this tremendous stumbling block of the lack of any records prior to 1874, so it has become a rather difficult and laborious task of writing to people and trying to determine if they were from this particular clan. Enclosed with this tape and short letter, is a family data sheet, very similar to the one that you sent on your great grandmother, Sarah Clark Turner.

It provided spaces for a little additional information, and I hope in the future to catalog and index as many of the descendants as possible. In addition to the family data sheets, I am also keeping a card index for a much easier reference point for particular individuals which will be cross indexed and give some indication to the family data sheet forms and where things can be located. If sufficient data can be secured from various individuals, I plan, with the cooperation of Baylor Un. to put these data sheets on file, there so if in the future some member of the family wish to secure or add to the information can file with them and more or less have a perpetual index to our particular group. As you may know, Baylor University has some interest in the Burleson family since the founder of Baylor was old Rufus Columbus Burleson back in the 1850's, he was a Baptist minister, who was president of Baylor, then Waco Univ. and when they combined, he was president there until almost 1900, his tenure was in excess of four years. He did have considerable interest in the Burleson's family background and did a lot of research in the area.

That basically is what I am attempting to do. It may take years, but I am having a heck of a lot of fun meeting people, corresponding with people, much more enjoyment in meeting and talking with the older people and some of the younger people too, And writing, becomes laborious at times,

I am also keeping various records of Burleson family members, not necessarily those of our clan, but those I run across as one that some information someone did on the family of old Helikiah Burleson, and at present, to the best of my knowledge, he holds the record for the most children he had seventeen by his first wife, six by his second wife, making a total of 23. He was the most productive, this of course was back in the 1815-20-25 era, up in north Ala. around Marion Co.

One that I ran across recently, that I thought was a little more amusing than the number of children, was Joe Burleson, through his grandson, a traffic engineer for the city of Shreveport, La, I secured this information, and I might add that Joe Burleson is a North Carolina Burleson. Born and raised there and has been living in La. for a number of years. and of course, N. C. is where the Burleson family started migration east and south from.

Joe's grandfather, and I might add that Joe is about fifty years old at this time, grandfather was in the War Between the States, and after coming back from the War Between the States, after being wounded a number of times, married and he and his wife had nine children. His wife died, and some years later, he remarried, Joe Burleson and his second wife had eight children, which makes seventeen. Which for that day and time was nothing outstanding, but the outstanding thing about Joe Burleson was that he died a week before the last child was born. And at the date of his death, he was 74 years old, and since the last child was born a week after he died, he was still productive.

I am assured by Joe and other family records that his wife was considerably younger than him when the last child was born. She was the daughter of a minister who was a abstainer, total, completely from alcoholic beverages, and Joe tells me the stories about his grandfather that he liked to have a few every now and then so he and his father-in-law didn't get along too well, but that's another long story.

Now, I will attempt to give you in nutshell form something of what I know and its very little of what I know concerning the background of the Burleson clan. It would seem that Aaron Burleson I came to the US probably through Baltimore about 1725 and settled in the mountain area of N. C. It is known that he did have seven sons and evidently six daughters. The sons, though their ages varied quite widely, were evidently all in the Revolutionary War, and four of the were evidently killed in the Revolutionary War.

Some of these had been married, I am sure, and had families, but of three that survived, I will give you a quick background of those, was Thomas, who stayed in N. C. Supposedly he had a home called the beehive. Why this was called that, I have no idea. But he left a lot of descendants in N. C. and you may see a Tom Burleson playing professional basketball, this is a cousin of the Joe Burleson in Shreveport, there is another Burleson I think now, playing professional baseball, is somehow related,

The eldest of Aaaon Burleson the first, who came to this country, and at this point I'd like to interject, that when you deal with the name Aaron Burleson, you have to be very particular and specify which Aaron and what time he lived and which clan he was, because the old family name was Aaron, and every family had a son named Aaron. You'll notice that aaron the first, had a son named Aaron, Jessee Burleson, his oldest son was named Aaron, his grandson was mamed Aaron Jefferson, another grandson, was named James Aaron, and in Texas, you had more Aaron Burlesons than you could shake a stick at.

Just last Sept. I was at a Burleson reunion in West Venteral, La. and there I met my first Aaron Burleson, and it is a name that is prominent. There are so many of them in the background of the Burleson family, it is impossible to sort them out. Unless you are very very careful in pointint out things.

But aaron the 2nd,d being he was the second Aaron, settled in the Wautauga Region, on the Clinch River, in what is now extreme east Tennessee. of course at that time was western N. C.

His will is still on file in Washington Co. Tenn, one of the first wills on file there, and from the will, and evidence it would appear that he was killed about 1784-5. He was killed by the Indians and old Rufus Burleson in some of his writings says that Aaron the second was actually on the way to see a friend of his in Ky. by the name of Daniel Boone when he was murdered by the Indians. Aaron, in his will, names his thirteen children. Thirteen seems to be a rather standard size family as a general rule in the Burleson family. One of Aaron the second's sons, and we'll call him Aaron the third, was evidently killed by the Indians at the place called Campbell's crossing. in Tenn. on one of their migrations. One of the girls was married, Abigail who was married to a gentleman whose name escapes me, and they were at a place which later became known as Nashville, Tenn. called Stone River. Her husband was killed by the Indians. Rufus Burleson tells it that she was shot, tomahawked and scalped, but being too plucky to let mere trifles to get her down, she got up and washed away the blood and found herself another husband. And she did, she found a gentleman by the name of Morgan up in that area and raised a family, and one of her grandchildren was a notable figure during the War Between the States and his name was John Hunt Morgan who was a General of the Confederacy and made raids in to Indiana and such and killed, actually murdered by the Yankee troops after they captured him in the Tenn, Ky area.

Two of Aaron the second's sons were James and Joseph. They moved into tenn. by the way they had found Indians in east Tenn. where Aaron the first was killed, they fought them in middle Tenn. where Aaron the third was killed, and they fought them around Nashville, Tenn, and they moved into north Ala. Prior to moving into north Ala. they had joined a Tennessean out of the Nashville area during the War of 1812 Indian Wars by the name of Andrew Jackson, and these two, James and Joseph were Captains in the Andrew Jackson's Army of 1812 and the Indian Wars at that time. Story goes along with this that neither one of them by the way, could read or write, but Andrew Jackson was looking for two honest men to head his commissary dept. because they were having severe problems with finding food, rations and this type of thing, and they selected James and Joseph both to head the commissary department and such and they went with Andrew Jackson. Now James had a young son born about 1798 named Edward and they were with Jackson at New Orleans and at Horseshoe Bend and a number of places, They then settled after the War of 1812 at what is now known as Decatur, Ala. They stayed there for some years and some of the family remained there, but James and Joseph, with their son Edward evidently had a confrontation with some Cherokee Indians who had moved out of N. C. into north Ala. and evidently a few of them were killed. So, for some discretion a better part of valor, at time, they moved into Missouri and shortly thereafter moved back to Tenn., and then moved to Texas in the early 1830's where Edward, the young boy in the War of 1812, who was by that time was a man of thirty- or thirty five years old, and he was general in the Texas Army, Commander of the Volunteers, he was later a Vice President of the Republic of Texas under Sam Houston, led one of the wings of charge at San Jacinto where whwy defeated Santa Ana. One of the little known stories is that you lhave heard of the place called the Alamo in Texas, he was the general in charge when they captured San Antonio de Barracks, capturd Gen. Cox., he paroled, him, let him go back to Mexico. Old Ed Burleson left a company of men at San Antonio, a fellow by the name of Will Travis, a fellow by the name of Davy Crockett, Jim Bowie, and about a hundred or so men. Ed Burleson and the rest of his troupe went back home to get the land reay for planting for next spring, and while they ewre gone, while the army was disbanded, Santa Ana came up and laid siege to the little place called the Alamo outside of San Antonio de Barracks and of course annihilated and I always considered that he might have been the smartest

Burleson of all because if he had stayed, surely he would not have been the Vice President of the Republic of Texas. He was out of the same family of one of the ones that had remained in north Ala., that Rufus Burleson came, and he was quite an outstanding Baptist minister in the 1840's -1890s, and he had a brother, Richard Burleson who was quite a scientist and this type of thing in the state of Texas. Texas has Burlesons up to their eyeballs. It seems that that was a place where most of them settled

So much for the Aaron Burleson family.

Now, we'll try to go on to our mutual ancestor, who was evidently one of the younger sons. No one knows the exact date of birth or such, but it would appear that he was born about 1850, or shortly thereafter. It would appear that he was born in Buncombe Co., N. C. area, and evidently when the Revolutionary War began, some of the men moved south, and some of them moved into the Mobile area, or the West Fla. area to escape the war, but this doesn't seem to be the case. I don't have any idea why Jesse Burleson would have gone to Mobile other than they were being supplied by the French with powder and such and the Spanish, to fight the revolution, and it's sheer conjecture at this time. But it's possible that he was with a group of those that had gone down to pick up supplies or such overland from N.C. to what is now Mobile, Ala. Evidently while there, he met and married and, all evidence we have at this time that her name was Elisabeth Clifton, but this does not seem at all logical, since it also says that she was also a beautiful French girl. And there is some indication that I have received from someone or two members of the family that they have some indication that her last name probably other than Clifton was D'Iberville. And D'Iberville for a French girl seems a little more logical than Clifton. Though I have not had an opportunity to visit Mobile to attempt to determine if any records from the 1875 -1878 era exists I would assume that if she were a French girl living in Mobile at that time, in all probability she was Catholic, and if so, it is possible that the Catholic Church in Mobile which I understand has records going back to that period. May possibly have marriage records or something on her at that time.

I don't know if anyone has ever taken a look into this possibility, but I hope to one of these days to have the opportunity to get there to try to find out.

But he evidently married Elizabeth Clifton, or D'Iberville, whichever it may be, took her back to Buncombe Co. N. C. where to all indications at least some of the children were born. Now Jesse carried a Bible with him in the Revolutionary War, in which he noted the children's names, and the dates of the births which they were born. Which evidently he had for many years after, the last child being born in 1795. Now that Bible was still in existence in 1903. At that time, it was in the possession of one of your great grandmother's sisters, Emma Clark Williams. She had married a Col. Price Williams some years before and he was evidently quite a bit older than her, and had two daughters. And right this minute I can't remember the two daughters, but one married a fellow by the name of Meadors, the second married a fellow by the name of Ashville Hubbard. The one that married the Hubbard in 1983, joined the Daughters of the American Revolution and used for part of her background type thing, a copy of the old family Bible and I would love to get a copy of it no telling who has it now, the particular Bible, I am sure that it hasn't been destroyed, and maybe one of these days I will be able to track down one of these particular people to find out, because though the names and dates of birth are indicated, I feel sure there are other notations in that particular bible that no one has felt probably that were of importance at the time. Evidently Jessie must have left this bible to his eldest son Aaron, who is our common ancestor, and Aaron in turn left it to Sarah Burleson Clark and then her daughter, Emma Clark Williams had it who is referred to in the letter., that I have enclosed in here that I will mention later, but I feel sure that it will surface later and will get a complete record later.

Jesse moved out of North Carolina about 1790 and moved into southeast Ga. and then to central Georgia, and it would appear that they were one time around Milledgeville, Wilkinson and several places. One indication I have is that Jesse died around 1720, another that he died in Butler County Ala. while he was on his way to visit a son, probably to visit Aaron, his eldest son, who was right on the Ala. -Miss. line. They had several children, I think, eight if I am not mistaken, the eldest being Aaron who is our common ancestor and I will speak first about the other one (several seconds skip in the tape here) and give some background concerning the other child of Jesse Burleson, of whom I know something of.

And that would be the youngest child, Jane. She was born in 1795, and married a fellow by the name of Thomas Samford, who was a Methodist minister in Ga., originally out of North Carolina, and indications are that he was born and raised on the big PeeDee River in North Carolina, and he was a Methodist Minister for many many years in probably Ga., Ala., Miss., and La., and finally settled in Tex. not too far from the La. line, up in north Tex., both of them dying there evidently in the 1860's, I have the dates somewhere from the tombstones.

One of their children was William F. Samford, who was quite prominent back in the 1840's 1850's - 1860's, and was a political writer, and even ran for Governor of Ala., didn't campaign and almost won. He was a very ill man, very ill health, and was quite proficient with a pen, I understand. He raised a fairly substantial family, his eldest son was William James Samford, and if you had to take Ala. History, you may have heard of him, he was Gov. of Ala., and died in office in 1901. Presently, I am corresponding, when I can sit down and write, to William James Samford's last surviving child, she's 97 years old, evidently quite an individual, very interested in the family backbround and we're trying to get together concerning her particular segment of the Burleson family and hopefully I'll be going to Opelika where she is residing with most of the Samford family, where many of the descendantants remain.

One of william Fluellen Samfords children married a Fullilove in Shreveport La. sometime in the late 1850's or so, and that in itself is another interesting tale, where William F. was going to Texas to visit his mother, Jane Burleson Samford, and he brought his daughter along with him and they stopped in Shreveport, La. and this Fullilove fellow was quite taken with her. William F. went back to Auburn, Ala. where he lived. Fullilove followed them and courted her and married her at Auburn and went to New Orleans, caught the steamer back up the river to Shreveport, and while in New Orleans, bought her a wedding present, a piano. One of the descendantants, by the way, still possess the piano, a very beautiful spinet type, not a grand piano, one that they could haul around at that time. So much for Jane Burleson Samford.

Back to Aaron, by the way, I will say at this time that I know nothing of the other children of Jesse, other than Jane and Aaron. Aaron evidently born in Buncombe Co. North Carolina, who went when he was very young with his father into Ga., and there married Mary Ann Marie Camp. There is some question in my mind whether Camp is correct, I feel that it could possibly be Kamp. There are some indications from some of the descendantants that she was actually born in Germany, and that she never really learned to speak English very well, though I have no indication of that other than that.

Aaron was in the War of 1812, and I think there is little question of that, but whether he was at the Battle of New Orleans or not is something else again, but sometime between 1850 the early 1820's, he settled on the Pascagoula River in what is now Jackson County, Miss. Just where its pretty hard to say, I haven't been abvle to track the thing down, particularly with the courthouse burning down in 1874, its virtually impossible to do much tracing in that particular area.

But he settled there, had four- had six children, four that lived, and you will notice on the back of the pedigree chart that I have sent here along with this, it so happened that the eldest and the youngest child, both girls died at a fairly young age, oh, about three and about nine or ten years old, I guess. He had four children, three of which I do know something about, one of which I know nothing about.

But the eldest surviving child, the one that lived with John Issac, and John Issac married Elizabeth or Eliza Goff, and about 1848 they moved from Jackson County, Miss. into Limestone Co. Texas, and raised a family of eight. I am in contact with some of these family members and am slowly beginning to collect some data from that particular family.

One of the other children, was Sarah, who was your Great great grandmother, and she married, of course Ebenezer Clark, a ship's carpenter, born in New York, and evidently from all indications, and from talking from people in Jackson county, had a shipyard on Clark's Bayou.

And you know more about this particular group than I do though I will say I am attempting to contact and gather data on this particular group. Isiah and I am not sure how to pronounce this, he possibly, and the only indication I can run across on him was in the 1850 census where it shows him in Jackson Co. and the question was asked, were you married in the last year, and he said yes, and it doesn't show a wife with him. And in the 1850 death census, there shows a Burleson girl who was born in Germany who was about fifteen or sixteen who "died on child-bed" which evidently meant in childbirth, and possibly this was his wife who died. With no other indication of him at all, and I don't know what happened to him at all.

And then we come to my particular group which is Elias. Elias, from some indication from some people in Texas, was born 1st Nov. 1813, and he was married to Sarah Goff, who could possibly be a cousin or sister or something to John Isaac Burleson's wife who was Elizabeth Goff. I do know that she could not read or write, I have a copy of an old deed in which she made her x, but they had a couple of - ten children, and I am surely but slowly tracking them down. I just ran across Daniel Bolen, who was the eldest son, and know very little about him but do know that he served in Wingate's Calvary during the War Between the States and that was about it. Just recently though, a lady I have been corresponding with and visited and some of the others over there ran across an old contract between Daniel and Bolan Burleson and Bolen, I am not sure if it's Boland or Bolin, in 1866 entered into a timber contract with A. C. Steed, and in 1867, at the bottom of the contract, it indicates that Edward H. Burleson, who was his brother a little younger than him a year or so, was paid 150 dollars for Daniel Bolan's part of the contract, as Bolen was deceased. Evidently he died sometime between July 1866 and June of 1867. Now Edward, I do know, never married, he served in the Confederate Army, was captured at Lookout Mountain, spent a couple years in the Yankee prison at Rock Island, was paroled right near the end of the war, came back home and he and Aaron Jefferson, the next son, and Selina one of the younger girls moved to Calcasieu Parish, where Lake Charles is located, in La., and went into the timber and sawmill business and some years later Moses Bunyan went to meet them and about that time, his twin brother Javin Pierce moved to Perry Co. and lived in that area and a few years later, Cassandra married a fellow by the name of Emanuel Nelson, and I have not been able to track their descendants down, and I but I can find nothing whatsoever on Susan, the oldest girl, Mary S. and Martha because of the courthouse burning down. There are no marriage records prior to 1875. I have enclosed with this a few items that may be of interest to you. One of them is a typed copy of the original deed of conveyance when Eb. Clark bought the section of land at Three Rivers, Miss. at Clark's Bayou in 1849. Now, I thought you might have some interest in this, I have proof read it and it looks pretty accurate the best I can determine. With that is a letter signed by Lolla Vanderwall, who is a granddaughter of Sarah Burleson Clark and a daughter of Laura Jane Clark Price. that was written in 1934, a few days after the death of Javin Pierce Burleson, whose death notice she had happened to see in the newspaper.

Now about this particular letter, indicates and you will see this, that the old family cemetery is there, speaking of course of Clarks Bayou and Three Rivers and is where my grandmother, and her grandmother would of course would be Sarah Burleson Clark and great grandparents Burleson were buried, and that would be Aaron Burleson who died in Dec., what day I don't know, Dec. of 1849 and Mary Ann Marie Camp who died about 1881-82, she evidently was in her nineties when she died. I can find nothing other than vague things there. Now I have been to Jackson County, have made several trips there and have a located where the cemetery is, which you may know more about that i do, because I have not actually seen it, because they are building a power plant almost on top of the place. And I spoke with a gentleman who was very, very familiar with the old homesite and he indicated that there are five burials in the cemetery, so if two of the people are Aaron Burleson, and Mary Ann Marie Burleson, the third person being Sarah Burleson Clark, who the other two are, is totally ounknown, and the Miss. Power Co. has put a chain link fence around the cemetery the gentleman who is charge of construction was most happy to see someone who was interested in the old cemetery. If in the future can determine just who is buried there and possibly a few better dates, we do have the dates of birth and we do know the month and year of Aarons death but we are not sure about Marie Ann Marie Camp Burleson, and we do have the date of birth of Sarah Burleson Clark and her death evidently within a few years of her mother, so one of them died about 1881 and the other about 1883, and I am not sure which way it is, and if we can determine who the other two are, I am hoping that we can put a marker out there. I don't know if your people are interested or not, but it is someting I would like to do one of these days.

Now there is also included in here a reply to her letter and you will notice in both cases, in one case that I have attempted to put some notes at the bottom to indicate some errors, first one thing and another, it was a reply to Lolla Vanderwall from one of the grandsons of Javin Pierce Burleson concerning something about the family. So thats about it, I hope to possibly contact Mr. Horace S. Turner as you indicated his address, I notice he lives in Fairhope. We have some friends who live in Fairhope, Robert Dade, who is a ship pilot from around Mobile, I have known Robert for some years, when he was down in Panama Canal, as a pilot from up in North Carolina, mutuals frieds from that area. He's originally from Fairhope or that area and we hope to visit with him before too long.

Basically, what I hope you will help me with, is completing family data sheets on yourself and your wife, possibly one on your mother and father and any other information that you can assist with such as dates and this type of thing, and if at all possible addresses of cousins that I might contact them and hope that they might cooperate in completing information of this type. Of course the great thing would be having someone within the Turner family who would be interested enough possibly not in the Burleson connection but in the Turner family in indexing the descendants of Noel Turner. And, of course, when the descendants of Noel Turner are indexed, the descendants of his wife, Sarah Clark are indexed, and that would be it.

So any help would be greatly be appreciated and that we could work together on this if you have any interest in it all. I have found that I have mentioned in the beginning, it to be very interesting and stimulating, and an opportunity to meet a very nice group of people. I will say this. everybody is not cooperative. They have their little skeletons in the closet, and I try to reassure them that I am not looking for any skeletons and I am not trying to dig in to anyone's backgrounds, and usually you can find out informations from courthouses, and marriage records, birth records, death records, and I have enjoyed it very much and hope that they maybe Horace Turner might be interested, or yourself or your wife, and also like to say this, that I hope to get to Mobile to look at the old Church records if possible and I hope at that time I have an opportunity to visit with you, of course I would call or write in advance at ascertain when it would be convenient to call upon you.

At this time I would like to extend an invitation to you and your wife and family that if you are in the New Orleans area, to stop by, give me a call. We live in the suburbs, out near the airport, I work at the University of New Orleans, I have worked there ever since it opened in 1958, and have not to many years before I retire hopefully at a fairly young age, do something else. After that, retirement and have a little time to do some work on the family and visit some more people and such.

With that I will close, it seems like I have been talking for hours, and I know that each side is a half hour and I know it must have been at least fifty minutes I have been talking here, and I have a rather monotone type voice and I hope I haven't put you to sleep.

But again, your cooperation would be greatly appreciated and I hope that I have the opportunity to meet you in person in the not too distant future.

We ~~can discern from~~ The Ebenezer Clark Shipyard Log (Ref. Z256, Mississippi Department of Archives and History, Jackson, MS) ^(show) that Ebenezer was a scrupulous business man, that he conducted business with many people in the gulfcoast area from Mobile to New Orleans, including his wife's BURLESON relatives and their GOFF relatives. He also recorded in this log book ~~xxxxxxx~~ ^{tuition} ~~tuition~~ expenses for his children. He employed a school teacher to live nearby and conduct classes not only for his own children but also for those of Elias BURLESON and others. We know that he often helped those less fortunate, as many loans to many people are recorded. We do not know the nature of his last illness, but he journeyed to a spa, Cooper's Wells, Hinds County, Mississippi, for treatment. ~~xxxxxxx Sarah accompanied him.~~ Since his last entry in his log book is dated 30 March, 1856, we can ~~infer a~~ ^{died} death date of April or May of 1856. - Sarah was a widow for 29 yrs - so Ebenezer died in 1836. - ¹⁸³⁶ Sarah was, by the standards of the day, a wealthy widow. Although only 44 when widowed, she never remarried. An ad in "The Star of Pascagoula" newspaper for 4 July, 1874, reads: "FOR SALE, Several yoke of good oxen for sale. Inquire of Mrs. Sarah CLARK, Three Rivers, Jackson County" (Journal of the Jackson County Genealogical Society, Vol. 1, 1984, p. 20).

One would surmise that she managed her own affairs, probably until her last illness. She became ill at Moss Point, Mississippi, and went to Mobile, Alabama for treatment. Although Sarah and Ebenezer had fourteen children, ^{including two daughters who died of yellow fever,} only five were living, and with her when she died. Those five were Emma (Mrs. Price WILLIAMS), Sally (Mrs. Noel TURNER), Lolla (Mrs. John A. VANDERWALL), Charley CLARK, and Peter Hess CLARK. It is not known

THE REVOLUTION

Had Houston remained in Tennessee instead of resigning the governorship and exiling himself among the Indians, he would have been Jackson's successor, for the old warrior named his successor, and chose Van Buren because Houston had disqualified himself by his strange conduct. But what a tame career to have been merely the eighth President of the United States, compared with that which Houston led for the thirty years that lay before him now in Texas.

EDWARD BURLESON AT 30

Was chosen to command the Patriot Army at Bexar when Austin left to go as envoy to the States. When the city was taken he and Cos signed the Articles of Capitulation in a little stone house which still stands in San Antonio, and is called the Cos House. Burleson enlisted as a private in the San Jacinto campaign the following March, and fought as a Colonel in that battle. He was afterwards Vice-President of the Republic, and has left an illustrious family in Texas. His grandson, Albert Sidney Burleson, was Postmaster General of the United States in the Cabinet of President Wilson.

THE REPUBLIC OF TEXAS

Tyler worried with the matter with little success at first, for the presidential campaign of 1844 was just ahead, and Van Buren, who was to be the Democratic candidate, and Clay, who was to be the Whig, had both declared against it "at this time."

When the Whig Convention met Clay was nominated, and Texas was not mentioned.

Van Buren, defeated for re-election in 1840, had held the Democratic party together and retained a leadership, which got for him enough instructed votes, largely from the South, to make his nomination reasonably sure. Thinking he had the South "sewed up,"

What I sent to Betty Clark Rogers;
Pascagoula Miss.

The two little girls of Ebenezer Clark buried in church street cemetery, Mobile, Ala.

Aaron Burleson, of the Family Chart.
Ebenezer Clark's Family Tree.
Aaron Burleson's Coat of Arms. Top of Engall's News - 1943 - wrote up about the first shipyard in the South started in Mobile Ala. by Ebenezer Clark and he moved to Three Rivers because he lost two little girls in the Yellow Fever epidemic. He moved in 1838 and his shipyard was named
Clark's Bayou. Mrs. Susie Trice Williams
Bearden cut the article out of the Mobile Register in 1952. It was captioned "All our Yesterday" and stated "One hundred years ago today, Ebenezer Clark at his shipyard on the Pascagoula River is preparing, etc." Quoted in Engall's News.
Mr. Dallas Smith wanted Mrs. Bearden to christen a ship in honor of Ebenezer Clark, but I could not do it so I sent the article to my cousin, Della Gaudin and asked her to do the honors. I have the original article out of the paper that she returned to me, after she let the journal of this history, archives in Jackson, I think, get a copy.

Will write about the saw mills.

"Have so much to write you -

The Clark Shipyard is written also in the Book: "Four Generations in Pascagoula" by Cyril

Maybe you can trace your Clark to N.Y. The family is buried there. I have so much more to send you. Little by little so they would get lost in the mail. There another cemetery at Three Rivers - Burlesons? or are they buried in the Clark cemetery. I hope to write the plant Daniel about clearing it up. Could you be there to watch the men?

Sometimes they chip stones.

Dear Mr. Hough,

Your letter came today and I was very glad to know about your book. We are leaving early tomorrow morning to visit relatives in Oklahoma & Texas and do as much research as possible while we are there.

Am enclosing family sheets to show my husband's connection to the Duckworth family. This is all that I can get together in the short time I can spare tonight. Will be glad to go through my files and send other Duckworth information when we return home about Nov. 1.

I have put together a Langston workbook - 63 pages and a 17-page index. Had only four copies Xeroxed, but after sending to only 3 people, I have received about 50 pages of additional material. This has kept me pretty busy. Am working now on a Burleson family book which will be indexed by next March if all goes well. It will run to about 150 pages.

Have done no research on the other surnames mentioned in your letter, and do not know if our Duckworth connects with yours, but will be glad to help in any way I can.

Wishing you great success -

Sincerely,

Inez McClellan

OFFICE OF INSTITUTIONAL RESEARCH

April 1, 1975

Jackson County Genealogical Society
Pasacagoula, Mississippi 39567

I am attempting to do a genealogical study of the Burleson family that settled in Jackson County, Mississippi and remained there from about 1830 until 1880 or a little after.

My grandfather was born in Jackson County in 1879, shortly before his family moved to Southwest Louisiana. He was Charles Edward Burleson, the son of Moses B. Burleson and Anna Elizabeth Garner and apparently the grandson of Elias and Sarah Burleson.

Elias Burleson was born about 1814 in Georgia and died, apparently in Jackson County, Mississippi between 1861 and 1870. Sarah, his wife, was born about 1817 in Mississippi and died between 1870 and 1880, again apparently in Jackson County. The maiden name of Sarah is unknown.

About two weeks ago, I visited the Jackson County Courthouse and learned that the courthouse was destroyed in 1875 and the records desired no longer exist. It now becomes a much greater task to find the information I need.

Today, I found a copy of "Requiem, Vol I" published by your organization several years ago. Since I was planning to again visit Jackson County with the idea of searching for the burial place, if they are marked, of members of the Burleson Family, I hopefully searched the index and discovered that the survey of cementaries lists no Burlesons. This brings me to the first question I would like to ask and that is: Did the survey include all cementaries in Jackson County?

I was able to locate the marriage liscense of Casander (Casandra) Burleson and Emmanuel W. Nelson who were married in 1876. A copy of that record is enclosed. If any members know of any descendants of this marriage, I would be most interested in contacting these descendants.

There were several other girls in the family and were apparently married prior to 1875 because no records could be located in Clerk of Courts office.

The Family evidently lived in the northern part of the county since in the 1860, 1870 and 1880 U.S. Census, their postal address was shown as Americus, which I understand no longer exists. One land transaction on file in the court records, dated 1861 but evidently refiled after 1875, indicates ownership of land on the east bank of the Pascagoula River near a lake on the west side named Berlson, which is one variation of the name Burleson that I have found.

Any assistance or direction that could be offered by your organization would be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

W. Richard Burleson

Dear Mrs Krebs -

Thank you very much for answering my letter -

Since my letter of April 1, 1975 I have found some additional information on the Burlesons of Jackson County. Some of it from DAR records and from other sources.

It appears that Aaron Burleson died in Jackson County in December 1849 and his wife Mary Ann Marie Camp Burleson died in Three Rivers, Mississippi in 1881.

They had an unknown number of children but two have been identified (1) Isaac who married Eliza Hogg of Georgia on 14 November 1833 they had at least one child born in Jackson County (Mary Ann Burleson) before moving to Texas (2) Sarah who married Ebenezer Clark - apparently he died in Jackson County in 1855 and she died in ~~in~~ Jackson County (?) in 1883.

A third child I believe ^{was} Elias Burleson, my great-great-grandfather, he was last noted in the 1860 census and his wife Sarah (last name not known) was last noted in the 1870 census, both in Jackson County.

Indr

These children, as close as I can determine, Burleson were:

- 1) Susan - born about 1842 - nothing else known
- 2) Daniel - born about 1844 - nothing else known
- 3) Edward - born about 1845 - was in the "War Between the States" - moved to Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana before 1880 (about 1872-73)
never married - about 1910-1915.
moved back to Mississippi to live in an "Old Soldier's Home"
- 4) Mary S. - born about 1847 - nothing else known
- 5) Martha - born about 1849 - nothing else known
- 6.) Aaron Jefferson - b 1 March 1850 - moved to Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana before 1875
- 7) Javan (Jave) or J R or J.P. - born about 1851
married Delille C. F. Hilley in Jackson County, Miss on 31 March 1878 - nothing else known
- 8) Moses Burleson - born 28 November 1853
(my great grandfather) - married Ann Elizabeth Gaines of Mobile on 24 December 1874 in Mobile - had four children born at Scianton, Miss and moved to Calcasieu
Parish, Louisiana between 1883-1886.

- 10) Selmas - born 15 October 1854 -

Mrs. J. E. Krebs

Dear Mrs. Krebs:

We have corresponded in the recent past concerning the possibility of obtaining some information concerning the Burleson family that resided in Jackson county in the 1800's. I wish to thank you for the information which you so kindly furnished as of this date.

I am most appreciative of receiving the excerpt from the book "Four Centuries on the Pascagoula". Unfortunately I cannot locate a copy of this book in the New Orleans area and hope in the near future I will have the opportunity to visit the library in Pascagoula to Xerox the pages in reference to the Burleson family.

Enclosed is a very brief and incomplete outline of the information that I have obtained on the Burleson family through the latter part of the summer. I have already discovered since that time that some of the dates are slightly in error but basically correct.

Also I am enclosing a copy of a letter written in 1934 from Mrs. Lola Vanderwall to some descendants of the Burleson family living in Hattiesburg, Mississippi. You will note in this letter that she makes reference to the old family cemetery at Three Rivers, Mississippi on Clark's Bayou. Knowing something of the idiosyncrasies of the Burleson, I would bet my last dollar that none of the graves are marked. But this lead indicates to me that while they evidently owned property in the old Americus area they evidently lived somewhat south of that area.

Also since I last wrote to you I have discovered through a verbal recollection of the only living grand son of Elias and Sarah Burleson that Sarah's maiden name was Goff. It would seem that Elias and his brother, Issac probably married either 2 sisters are very closely related girls since Issac married Eliza Goff. If you know of anyone who has done research into the Goff family, I would greatly appreciate receiving their names and addresses so that I might contact them.

When I visit Pasacagoula last March, I obtained a county map and have discovered that there is a small lake in northern section of the county just off the Pascagoula River with the name of Burlson. I suspect that this particular geographic marking on the map was a misspelling of the name Burleson since there is such a close similarity in the spelling and that the family evidently owned some land in this area of the county.

Thank you for your cooperation in the past and I hope that I am not boring you with this pareicular family study.

Sincerely,

Dear Mrs Krebs

I had the opportunity last week to make a one day trip to Pascagoula and as luck would have it you evidently were out of town. I hope to again visit Jackson County in the near future and hope that you wouldn't mind if I called you in advance so that I could have an opportunity to speak with you.

From the description in the enclosed letter I was able to determine that the old Burleson-Clark Cemetery is located on land that now belongs to Mississippi Power & Light Co. I spoke with a representative of the company and he said that there are five graves in the cemetery. From the letter it is apparent that three of those buried there are Aaron Burleson (18 July 1779 - Dec 1849), his wife Mary Ann Marie Camp Burleson (1789 - 1881) and Sarah Burleson Clark (7 October 1812 - 1883). The identity of the other two buried there is unknown and could be any one of several people. There is a strong possibility that

They could have been children of Ebenezer Clark (husband of Sarah Burleson Clark) or Elias Burleson and his wife Sarah Hogg Burleson, one could possibly be Louise Burleson (who I believe to be the granddaughter of Aaron and wife of his son Sybil) who died in August 1849. I don't believe that Ebenezer Clark is buried there since he is said to have died in Raymond, Mississippi in 1855 and he is probably buried at or near Raymond.

Since it is evident that both Elias and Isaac Burleson married girls from the Hogg family (Isaac married Eliza Hogg about 1834/35 and Elias married Sarah Hogg about 1840/41) I am most interested in contacting some member of the Hogg family who is interested in the family background so that we might exchange information.

While in Jackson County last week I spoke to Mr. Oscar Scott who lives near Clark's Bayou and he said that one of the Clark girls (Sarah Burleson Clark's daughter or granddaughter) married a Turner and that the family now lives in Mobile. I checked the Mobile telephone book and the number of Turner's is unbelievable. He did state that they had a Supply business in mobile presently. Mr Scott had some wonderful stories about Clark Bogan but most of his information dated from a period after the Burleson clan had departed Jackson County.

If you would let me know when you have completed indexing the records you mentioned in your letter last summer I would like to come to Jackson County to look at the index.

I hope that this letter finds you well and I am looking forward to another trip to Jackson County so that I might have the good fortune to meet you in person —

Dear Mrs Krebs

Sorry that I have been so long in responding to your letter of 20 July.

The information that you sent was most welcome. I have been looking for D B (Daniel Bolan) Burleson for about a year and had almost given up hope of ever finding out what happened to him. It appears died sometime between July 1866 and June 1867 and I believe that he never married.

If you happen to know anyone who is working on the Goff family I would be most interested in contacting them in relation to the marriage of Eliza Goff to Isaac Burleson and Sarah Goff to Elias Burleson.

If any other information concerning the Burleson family comes to light I would be grateful if you would contact me.

The enclosed money I hope will be sufficient to cover the cost of the xerox copies.

Dear Mrs. Rodgers:

Your letter of May 26th is most interesting for it presents me with another Martha Burleson I did not know about. Do you know who she married and what happened to her? It will require extensive checking to be sure, but at first glance I can find one possibility for her father's identity. Aaron Burleson (1779-1849), son of Jesse, and Aaron's wife, Mary Ann Marie Camp, left Georgia in early 1800's and went first to Mobile, then to Moss Point, MS. They had six or more children:

1. Elizabeth, b. 1809 died young.
2. John Isaac, b. 1811 m. Elizabeth Goff 1833 and they went to Texas.
3. Sarah, b. 1812 m. Ebenezer Clark ca 1829 and had eight children.
4. Elias, b. 1813 m. Sarah "Sallie" Goff and had six children.
5. Isiah, b. 1814 is the one possibility. We know nothing about him.
6. Mary, b. 1816 died at 7 years of age.

Other than 5. Isiah, I know of no other Burleson in that area during the 1830's, when Mary Ann Clark probably married a Burleson, who's spouse is unknown. Note that Isiah's mother was also named "Mary Ann". Names of the eight children of Ebenezer Clark, which I have, were taken from the 1850 census of Jackson Co MS and from an 1884 letter from youngest son, Peter H. Clark, who I believe was a member of the U. S. Congress. If you do not have these children, let me know.

Youngest daughter of Ebenezer Clark, Emma (1847-1873) m. Col. Price Williams of Mobile. Their daughter, Lolla Price Williams MEADER, joined the D.A.R. on Jesse Burleson's service at Valley Forge in Rev. War. If you want to check the DAR records in your library, her number is #78380, Vol. 79, page 143.

I would like to continue this correspondence, for we know very little about Jesse's descendants who remained in Jackson Co MS. The ones who went to Texas left good records and many of them are members of the Burleson Family Association, however they know very little about their Mississippi cousins. Do you know the parents of Ebenezer Clark? I understand he was born in New York. Do you know when and where he and Sarah died? As soon as I find the time, I will search further for a possible father of Martha.

Cordially,

Wm. S. Burleson

Dear Betty

Your letter of 26 May 1986 was received with great interest. I regret that at the present time I am not in a position to contribute to the planned publication as I do not have the information available to me at my present location. I would be most interested to contribute in the future and would be very interested in joining the Jackson County Genealogical Society (let me know how and how much).

The reason for my inability to contribute is due to the fact that after retiring from the University of New Orleans on 1 Feb 1984 I took a position on 1 Mar 1984 at the University of Bahrain (located in the Arabian Gulf area). and did not bring any information with me and would hesitate to write anything without making sure that the fact were correct. --- The reason for the strange return address is that being an old retired Naval Reservists they let me use the Naval Postal System which is much faster and a heck of a lot cheaper than international mail.

1st-- Ebernezer Clark - everything points to him having been born in New York and then went south. He died while on a trip to Jackson, Miss (I can not rememer the date) and I don't know if he was buried there are brought back to Clark's Bayou. It is always possible that they were related. I regret that I have never really looked into the Clark's very much - I tried to make contact with the ones from Ebernezer, even ran adds in your local paper, but was never able to locate anyone. Would really like to contact someone from that group.

2nd-- The cemetery is located on the site of the point of land that is now behind the new power plant. It was evidently the location of the family of Ebernezer Clark and his Burleson wife. There are at least five graves there and without question Aaron Burleson (1789-1849), his wife Mary Ann Marie Camp Burleson and Sarah Burleson Clark (Ebernezer's wife are buried there) and possibly Ebernezer himself. Have never been able to actually see the cemetery myself but plan to in the not too distant future.

3rd-- I know of no Burleson who would be of the right age and in the location who could have married Mary Ann Clark. The only possibility would be Isiah(?) , son of Aaron, - he is something of a mystery and can only be found in the birth record section of the Bible and in the 1850 Jackson County Census. I don't believe it was him since he was alive in 1850 and that probably would have been too late to have died and left Mary Ann a widow that was still bearing children. A strange note is that in the 1850 Mortality Schedule there is a very young woman named Burleson who died in child birth (place of birth was Germany I believe) and Isiah state on the census that he had been married within the year so I have sort of always felt that it could have been his wife.

4th-- The Burleson moved around a lot. Evidently the family kept in touch with some fairly remote relatives all the time so it is possible that that is where the Clark-Burleson union came from.

Pascagoula Public Library
Local History & Genealogy Dept.
Burleson Family

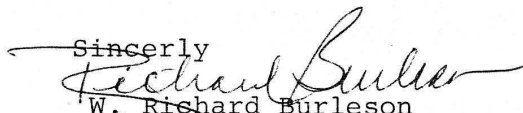

Burleson

5th-- Just a few remembered notes that have always puzzled me. Elias, son of Aaron, lived up near Americus somewhere but due to the court house fires have never been able to locate where. The only deed left in the court house was the sale of one acre of land by Elias to a James Davis. This land was located on something called the BASCOM (?) - always wondered what the Bascom was and have assumed that it was a pond or something off from the river. Could never locate the exact time of Aarons move from Georgia to Jackson County but expect it was after he saw the country while with Andrew Jackson in the area in 1814-15 and then moved there - the book "Two Centuries on the Pascagoula" states that he was shown with a land grant in 1817 but I have never been able to check that out

My contract was up here in September of this year but they have ask me to stay on indefinite period. I have agreed to stay at least until September 1987 but my plans after that are not very firm, though it is possible that I might remain until September 1988 before returning to River Ridge, La for my final, final retirement. In any case I plan to pick up the pieces again and try to find out as much as I can about Jackson County and would appreciate any assistane that might be available from your organization.

My wife is usually in River Ridge from about April to October and then joins me here in Bahrain (the weather is a little to hot for her -- last week we had an early warm spell and it got up to 112°F). So you could send correspondence directly to me are through my wife, Jane.

Mrs. M. A. Frye
Hattiesburg, Miss.

Dear Mrs. Frye,

Last week I noticed in the Times-Picayune the account of the death of J. P. Burleson.

The name attracted my attention as my grandmother was Mrs. Sarah Burleson Burleson Clark, and my mother as a girl was Laura (Lolla) Clark, and often have I heard her tell of some cousins who were raised with her at the old home site, Three Rivers, on Clark's Bayou, about six miles above here. The old family cemetery is there and is where my grandmother and great-grand parents Burleson are buried. I remember two names Mother mentioned, Cousin Jim and Cousin Jeff Burleson. Some of the family located in Texas, and I did not know any lived in Mississippi.

My mother married John A. Vanderwall, and she died December 29th, 1931 at the age of 83. I noticed Mr. Burleson's age was 82, which made me think he must be mother's cousin, and incidentally mine, also.

Some members of our family have a family tree of the Burlesons. I have no immediate relatives, as my father and mother died some years ago. My old Auntie, Mrs. Emma Clark Williams is down ill, lives with her daughter at Biloxi. She will be 88 years old if she lives until March 2nd. I trust you will not think me presumptuous in writing you, but the only relatives I have in the world are one my mother's side and they are few and none closer than my Aunt and cousins, so I would like to know if you are of the Burleson blood, for in some way it seems there is a tie that binds those of this blood.

Please accept my sincere sympathy in your loss for although we lose our loved ones at an advanced age, still it leaves an aching void.

Sincerely,

Lolla Vanderwall

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY A. M. C. BURLESON
1788 - 1881

BURLESON - Our grandmother, Mrs. Mary A. M. C. Burleson, died of old age in Jackson Co., Miss, August 22, 1881, aged ninety-three years and six months. Her life was pure, and its close beautiful.

She was born in Germany, Feb. 20, 1788. When a child, her parents emigrated to Georgia. Soon after their arrival, they died within two days of each other. In her childhood days, she was much petted by Gen. Washington, on whose knee she often sat.

In 1805 she joined the M.E. Church, and in the same year was married to our grandfather, Aaron Burleson, with whom she lived happily until his death, Dec. 25, 1849. She outlived, by more than a decade of years, all, save one, our mother of her six children.

The last twenty-three years of her life were spent in total blindness, and the latter half of these years she was so deaf as not to be able to hear anything, except what was directed particularly, and with emphasis, to her. At these dispensations she did not repine, but would submissively say, "The will of the Lord be done". These afflictions were the more severe as she had ever lived a life of most active industry.

She had all her life been a dear lover of the house of God, and notwithstanding these great infirmities, she wished ever to be found in her place, as she often said, "For example's sake; not that I can any longer hear either the sermon, the singing, or the prayers".

In other days, she was well and extensively known by the members of the Georgia and Alabama Conference; but most, if not at all, of those who knew her in her own hospitable home, preceded her to their graves. The Rev. Thomas Sanford, of the Georgia Conference, whose memory was ever most dear to her, was her brother-in-law.

Our grandmother moved from Georgia to Alabama in 1816, and from thence to Three Rivers, Jackson Co. Miss., in 1829, where they sleep side by side, awaiting the resurrection of the just.

Our dear old grandmother's life was one of deep devotion to God. Her seasons and place for private prayer were never neglected. Long years of use had rendered them indispensable to her, and as long as she was able, leaning upon her staff, in her blindness, and laden with the infirmities of age, she would slowly grope her way to her fixed place of privacy,

There she fervently prayed for her children, as she called us all. When we remember that those prayers ascend for us no more, we are sad, but believe that God still holds them in remembrance.

Obituary.
Sarah Burleson Clark.

CLARK.—Died of Bright's disease and old age, in Mobile, Ala., Oct. 9, 1883, my mother, Mrs. Sarah B. Clark, aged seventy-one years and one day. Mother had been in Mobile six weeks with her son-in-law, Col. Price Williams, under medical treatment. Her sufferings were very great. Each day for a month previous to her death, it was thought she might not live another day. She often spoke of dying, and prayed to be released from her agonies, principally intense nausea. God was near to her in her sufferings, and she praised his holy name, often saying, "Oh, how precious Jesus is to me in my extremity!"

I was with her seventeen days. Many times did we, the five of her living children,—two sons and three daughters,—gather around what we thought her dying bed, but as we sang and prayed with her, she would revive again. For a few hours before her death, she was granted relief from her great sufferings; and as she fell asleep without a struggle, I felt to praise the Lord that her pilgrimage was done, the battle fought, the victory won, and the crown laid up.

"She shall sleep, but not forever;
There shall be a glorious dawn;
We shall meet to part, no, never,
On the resurrection morn."

It is but a little while, and "He that shall come will come, and will not tarry."

Mother was born near Augusta, Ga., Oct. 7, 1812. Her parents removed to the territory of Alabama. When they arrived in Mobile, in 1818, it was but a small village. She was married near Mobile, in 1827, to Ebenezer Clark, a ship-carpenter of New York City. They lived there many years. From thence they moved to our old homestead, Three Rivers, in Jackson Co., Miss., where she has lived for forty years.

Mother lived a widow for twenty-seven years. Father died away from home at a watering-place, and she never saw his grave. She was a member of the Methodist church for nearly forty years. Mother had fourteen children. Her son John Tyler Clark, whom she mourned as dead, was in California the last letter she had from him twelve years ago.

Dear mother proved that the fifth commandment was sacred to her, by many years of patient, careful, and gentle attention to her blind, deaf, and helpless mother, who died two years ago, aged ninety-three years. Her relatives on the side of her father, Aaron Burleson, are said to compose one of the largest families in the United States; a history of them is now being written.

Mother possessed sixteen slaves. She often said she was sorry she ever owned them, as they proved anything but a blessing to her.

She loved very dearly Mrs. C. O. Taylor, who made us a visit just prior to her death. She also esteemed very highly the friendship of Eld. Taylor.

PETER H. CLARK.

BURLESON.—Our grandmother, Mrs. Mary A. M. O. Burleson, died of old age in Jackson Co., Miss., Aug. 22, 1881, aged ninety-three years and six months. Her life was pure, and its close beautiful.

She was born in Germany, Feb. 20, 1788. When a child, her parents emigrated to Georgia. Soon after their arrival, they died within two days of each other. In her childhood days, she was much potted by Gen. Washington, on whose knee she often sat.

In 1805 she joined the M. E. Church, and in the same year was married to our grandfather, Aaron Burleson, with whom she lived happily until his death, Dec. 25, 1849. She outlived, by more than a decade of years, all, save one, our mother, of her six children.

The last twenty-three years of her life were spent in total blindness, and the latter half of these years she was so deaf as not to be able to hear anything, except what was directed particularly, and with emphasis, to her. At these dispensations she did not repine, but would submissively say, "The will of the Lord be done." These afflictions were the more severe as she had ever lived a life of most active industry.

She had all her life been a dear lover of the house of God, and notwithstanding these great infirmities, she wished ever to be found in her place; as she often said, "For example's sake; not that I can any longer hear either the sermon, the singing, or the prayers."

In other days, she was well and extensively known by the members of the Georgia and Alabama Conferences; but most, if not all, of those who knew her in her own hospitable home, preceded her to their graves. The Rev. Thomas Sanford, of the Georgia Conference, whose memory was ever most dear to her, was her brother-in-law.

Our grandparents moved from Georgia to Alabama in 1816, and from thence to Three Rivers, Jackson Co., Miss., in 1829, where they sleep side by side, awaiting the resurrection of the just.

Our dear old grandmother's life was one of deep devotion to God. Her seasons and place for private prayer were never neglected. BURLESON FAMILY BULLETIN

ENGLISH RESEARCH

As you know, Ira BURLESON, who has helped BFA in so many ways with legal help, has engaged the services of Eve McLAUGHLIN to re-search the origins of our immigrant ancestor (ancestors). Because of the widespread interest, the most recent letter which he received from Ms. McLAUGHLIN is being included here in its entirety. Although this letter was not dated, the postmark was 22 Aug 1981. Heartfelt thanks to you from all of us, Ira, for your interest and generosity.

"THE NORTHERN LADS

Immediately, it struck me that BURLESON was a very unlikely name to find in Wales, I knew vaguely that it was a northern name and our investigations confirmed this. We still don't have any record of your Aaron in Wales, but for various reasons, the registers of Caerleon have not been available for search, so this may have the baptism of Aaron in splendid isolation. There are certainly no Burlesons in the other parishes around it.

The BURLESON family essentially belong to the county of Durham in the north east of England and the earliest occurrence of the family name was found in Brancepeth, about six miles south west of the city of Durham itself. Unfortunately, the parish registers of Brancepeth go back only to 1599, at which time there were at least two Burlesons there who were young adults about to marry. William BURLESON married and moved away, but Wilfred BURLESON produced a sizeable family after his marriage in 1608 to Eleanor LOCKER. His eldest son was named Matthew in 1609, and another was called Bartholomew in 1616.

A second generation also lived in Brancepeth, who may possibly be the sons of William BURLESON returned to the fold, or related through another brother. They were certainly closely linked, for both William of the second generation and Thomas named their first sons Matthew, in 1626 and 1623 respectively. Matthew was not one of the commonest names in use then. Every family had its John, Thomas and William, but after that, the precise selection from the stock of names available tends to be significant.

One thing which shows up is that the Burlesons were uncommonly inventive in their use of names. Northerners are traditionally conservative and stick to the same family group of names over and over again, but the Burlesons had these uncommon ones in use. Therefore, somewhere along the line, they had broken away from the regular stock into the rarer ones. Wilfred - who on earth called a child by that name, anywhere between 1066 and 1850 (when there was a Saxon revival, stemming from the new popularity of a pictorial history book and various poetic dramas which sold like hot cakes). In 1600, Wilfred was a quaint name, even in the north, where they did cling to some of the older names.

Matthew, Wilfred's son, does not appear later in the Brancepeth registers. Only brother Bartholomew carried on the family there, with children named Thomas, Jane and Stephen. (He didn't use Wilfred at all, which ought to mean something about his relations with his father). The younger Matthews did go on in Brancepeth, and so did a George BURLESON, who appeared from nowhere. Was he another returned wanderer?

Brancepeth was a small village or townlet, dominated by the great Norman castle in its park. The whole village was run by the castle family, and if you did not get on, you got out. However, where could a boy from Brancepeth go? Some went to the city of Durham, which is beautiful in an austere kind of way, but has always been ridden by clerical influence in the past. If you were a Puritan or worse, a free thinker, then Durham was the last place to go. He could go north to Newcastle, a bracing, rough sea-port town, full of merchants and strange oaths in the Danish tongue, for half the seafarers from Scandinavia traded here, and the local dialect is strongly influenced by their speech. In fact, a southerner has problems being understood. Even folk from the villages around make fun of the Newcastle accent or 'Georgie'. Did our Durham boys go there, I wondered?

Some undoubtedly did. I found an early George BURLESON or BURLETSON up there, married to a probably cousin named Deborah BURLETSON and raising a family which included a boy named Bartholomew, his youngest, born 1640. George married Deborah in 1618, so he was presumably born somewhat before 1599, when those Brancepeth registers start. The name George occurs regularly back home in Brancepeth in later generations. There was also an Edward 'BIRLEYSON', the first of the name encountered, who was of about the same age as George, though all I can trace of his family is two daughters, Alice (1618) and Anne (1626) in Newcastle.

However, any northerner with sense finally turns his back on the cold and rugged hills - which are grand in the summer and downright depressing in the winter. The great North Road, from Scotland to London, passes through Durham county, and London has always been a great magnet for ambitious English young men. In fact, it was traditional to send at least one younger son to London as an apprentice to a merchant - if you could afford it. He could then set up in trade in the City, and might bring great credit on the family by becoming Lord Mayor of London, Dick Whittington style. We investigated to see if we could find any of the Burlesons in the City.

What we found was a Matthew BURLESON of St Mary Aldermary, one of the central City parishes. He might just possibly be the missing Matthew of Brancepeth, though as he had children from =626 (sic), I think he is more likely to be a cousin, possibly the son of that William of Brancepeth who married in 1601. He started his family with Jane and Stephen - which echoes the names used by Bartholomew back home.

Also in London, at St Andrew Holborn, was an Edward BURLESON, who had a wife named Martha. Sometimes she is called 'Matthew' which was a common alternative spelling. Edward and Martha had a long family

Any or every of these sons might have produced a son named Edward, though we have not yet found the baptisms. George did have a son named Ephraim in 1648 and another called George in 1659 - he must have done something in between. At least we have the name firmly established and plenty of males likely to continue it.

In London, many of the residents in the City were merchants. However, for the ambitious lad, the pull of the royal court in the western suburb of Westminster was strong. Actually getting into the court either meant a great deal of money - enough to buy great estates and a peerage - or moving in by the back door as a royal official.

The business of government was run very much by the King and his own staff then - not by a Prime Minister and politicians. The equivalent of the Civil Service, which now administers the day to day business of translating laws into action, collecting taxes, and generally keeping the wheels running to enable government to keep control of the country, was then a motley collection of royal officials, with strange mediaeval names like 'Clerk of the Cheque' and 'Master of the Hanaper'. Whereas most of the posts about the court went to the younger sons of peers, who became Yeomen of the Bedchamber and the like, these posts which actually had to do with the collection of taxes were gladly handed over to merchants' sons, who could add two and two without too much of a struggle. This could be a road to advancement for a young Burleson, which might eventually lead to his having a knighthood.

Another possibility, which could have led a Burleson to be in Wales, was by service in the army. The civil wars of the 1640 had led to the establishment of a considerable army, and a degree of professionalism was developing. The old kind of war, in which the barons and lesser landowners were soldiers and led troops by virtue of owning land from the King, was more or less over. The Civil War was not a jolly romp for the men, though some of the officers played it for fun. Prince Rupert on the King's side was a whizz at cavalry charges, but when he mowed down the other side, he just carried on into the middle distance, instead (sic) of consolidating his gains, which meant that the battered enemy had time to regroup and fortify their post. Oddly enough, the lords of Brancepeth were great royalists and the memory of their gallantry is preserved in a (much later) Cavalier song called 'Boot, Saddle, to horse and away' which glorifies the swooping, Rupert-style charges.

'Reach Brancepeth castle, before the break of day..

Alice, my wife, I know what she'll say

Boot, saddle, to horse, and away'

(It was mostly the women who stayed home and organised the siege defences, fought to the last crust of bread and then made a peace which did not involve total loss of the castle for the family). After the War, there was the long reign of Oliver Cromwell, followed by the uneasy times of the Restoration. There was need for an army to guard against the Dutch, the Scots and even the people of the country. There would have been a lot of sense in a Burleson born in Scotland, where there were constant skirmishes. Wales is another matter, though it was normal practice to keep a force handy on the borders (the Marches) in case those troublesome Welsh rose again. Caerleon (seat of the Lion) was one of the Marcher castles, and perhaps Edward BURLESON (or whoever Aaron's father was) was stationed there with a 'watch and ward' detachment of the army. Being an Army officer was another way in which a knighthood might be obtained.

At the moment, we have found no record of any Sir Edward BURLESON, but this is not conclusive, since the title of knight is not hereditary, so that there is not the same incentive to keep careful records of descent, as there is with barons and higher peers. The record will be the one entry of granting the knighthood, and finding it involves knowing the year - which we don't yet. It is possible that it wasn't actually a title he had. Often I have found that where the person is described as 'Esquire' or 'Gent', this has been interpreted wrongly. Both are 'titles of honour' but not titles of peerage, or even knighthoods.

BURLESON FAMILY BULLETIN

One thing which we expected to find was a will for Edward. Even if he died abroad, the will should be proved in England if he had any property at all here, as we might expect a knight to have. There is no obvious trace in the Prerogative Court, where wills of those who died 'beyond the seas' had to be proved. Sometimes it took years to sort out these estates, so the will may turn up yet, long after it might be expected.

Aaron is another uncommon name in that period, and was mainly used in Nonconformist families. The name Ephraim, used by George son of Edward BURLESON, comes out of the same stable. I would not be at all surprised to find it in this family. Nowhere have we yet found a trace of an Aaron BURLESON, at any period. The Caerleon registers were unavailable, but it may be we shall get access in a week or so. I do not expect to find many Burlesons there, since the family is not Welsh. However, if you can give me an address for contact while you are touring, I will endeavour to let you know what we find during your trip.

If you can, I would recommend that you visit Durham and see the cradle of the family, at Brancepeth. The castle alone is worth the trip. This will give you some idea what they left and - if the weather turns bad - why they left it. In London, the City is where the family lived for a time, and a visit to the Museum of London at the Barbican will give you a real idea of the life of London in the 1600s when they lived there. The two parishes where Matthew BURLESON lived were St Mary Aldermary and St Thomas the Apostle, and Edward lived in St Andrew, Holborn, on the northern edge of the City. The City was the walled central portion of London - there are still some bits of the walls around - bounded by gates. Some of the roads are still called Aldersgate, Aldgate, Cripplegate etc. St Mary Aldermary is still there, at the southern end of Bow Lane adjoining Queen Victoria St. St Andrews Holborn is by Holborn Viaduct and Holborn Circus and both should be open to visiting. Don't try to take a car anywhere near here.

Brancepeth is near Durham - probably the best thing to do would be to stay in Durham city and hire a car to go out there. It is worth the trip if you can spare the time.

Caerleon is in Monmouthshire, near Newport. It is still attractive and the coast near Newport is interesting, in that it could be where Aaron took ship for America. Again, you will need a car for this bit.

If you can let me have an address, I will get in touch while you are touring - and I hope that you will have a good time over here.

A SHORT SHORT BACKGROUND OF THE BURLESON FAMILY

The Burleson family evidently came to the colonies from Wales, Great Britian. Two are known to have left the mother country and settled in the New World.

First to come was Sir Edward Burleson about 1715. He settled in the Connecticut-Vermont area and was the sire of all the yankee group. About ten years later the second Burleson arrived. Aaron is believed to be either the brother or cousin of Edward and came to find him but as luck would have it, Aaron landed in Maryland and moved into North Carolina and never found his kinsman.

According to Rufus C. Burleson, it wasn't until the closing days of the War Between the States at Petersburg, Va. that the two separate branches of the families were to meet. Evidently the Edward Burleson clan have always remained in the north and the Aaron clan, with few exceptions, have stayed south of the Mason-Dixon Line. Each of the two groups moved west with each wave of migration.

Little is known to me of the yankee group other than they now populate the northern portion of the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The children of Aaron, belived to be seven sons and five daughters, must have been hardy and adventurous souls. There is some evidence, but I do not have the documented data, that all seven sons served in the Revolutionary War with only three surviving that war, (Aaron II, Thomas and Jesse). Thomas evidently remained in North Carolina and probably most of the Burlesons presently residing there are from this group. Aaron II was killed in what is now East Tennessee about 1784-85 by Indians. Jesse moved into southeast Georgia where he died in 1822(?).

One of the four who did not survive the Revolutionary War was said to have been killed by the British while on leave to get married, so evidently he was never married. It is probable that the other three were married and left descendants.

ENGLISH RESEARCH

Appreciation is extended to Ira Burleson, BFA #25, for this English research report. We are grateful to Ira for the time, attention, and encouragement he has provided BFA. The English research, which he has funded, and in which he has actively participated, has sparked our enthusiasm and generated a heightened desire to learn more of our family's early history. (See Vol. 1, No. 2, and Vol. 2, No. 2, Burleson Family Bulletin for earlier reports.)

"I will have a red scarf in my left hand," Eve said. That was how I was to recognize her at the check-in counter of British Airways in the flight from London, England to Newcastle on-the-Tyne on Friday morning, August 27 [1983], at about 9 o'clock. Eve McLaughlin, Genealogist and Record Searcher, at Varney's, 18 Rudds Lane, Haddenham Bucks, HP 17 8 JP was brought to my attention a few years ago by William S. Burleson, the first president of Burleson Family Association. I had corresponded with her after Anna Kate and I went looking for Burlesons in Caernarvan, Wales, in vain, in 1981, following the traditional view that Edward and Aaron Burleson shipped to the new country from Wales in 1716 and 1720, respectively. We could not find Burlesons in the records of Caernarvan and so informed Mrs. McLaughlin. In telephone conversation and in a written report some two years ago, Mrs. McLaughlin said that the Burlesons were 'northern lads' of Anglo-Saxon descent in Durham County, England, the largest City in that area being Newcastle on-the-Tyne. Further search disclosed that the Burlesons may have been located in Brancepeth, a small village some twenty miles south of Newcastle in County Durham.

[Without his lovely wife, Anna Kate, whose passing June 20, 1982, has marred these past two yearly business trips to Ireland, Ira determined...] To take up where Anna Kate and I had left off, I got in touch again with Eve McLaughlin in June and told her I wanted to visit Newcastle, look at the records and see if we could find the Burlesons at Brancepeth. My plans were to...[arrive at] Heathrow Airport in London Friday morning, August 26.

On Monday evening, August 22...I had an air mail letter from Eve McLaughlin...She had arranged for me to see the records in County Durham on Friday, the 26th and to go down to Brancepeth to see the Castle and the Church on the 27th.

'On that day also, I am doing my best to arrange via the local paper and direct contact, that a number of Burlison people should also come to Brancepeth to meet you. The suggested meeting place at noon is the inn known as Braun's Den, a picturesque old place named after the legendary wild boar after whom Brancepeth is named. Braun terrorized the neighbourhood, and his path (peth) lay through the now village. The landlord has made an interesting collection of historical items from the neighbourhood and the place is interesting to see.

I don't know how many Burlisons will come--if any. The weekend is one when people traditionally go away for a few days, and there may be no one left in the area not otherwise engaged. But I have hopes of some of them. The current area phone book lists no Burlesons or Burletsons, but 20 Burlisons and 47 Burlinsons. The adjacent phone area lists one actual Burleson, and six Burlisons, and about a dozen Burlinsons. I have alerted the local paper, which should publish a letter as if from you next Friday, (out Thursday evening), requesting all Burlisons, Burlesons, Burletsons and Burlinsons to come to Brancepeth. This should catch the married ladies, who can't be discovered in the phone book. I have also one local Burleson descent found earlier, who lives about 25 miles from me.'

This late and unexpected development of arranging to meet with the Burlesons gave me some anxiety...How would I make arrangements to dine them and provide desirable courtesies as a host?...[Two transatlantic phone calls arranged for Eve to act as tour guide and, for recognition, she would carry a red scarf in her left hand...] Finally, I arrived at the British Airways counter about 8:30. I looked...among the many people going this way and that for various flights ...and at a distance saw the red scarf, and a smile of recognition broke out...

The flight from London to Newcastle took about an hour and after the 'getting acquainted' remarks, Eve began to remind me of our itinerary...We had to visit Newcastle and then go to Durham to view the records. Then we would go to Brancepeth on Saturday to visit the Castle and the Church, then to Braun's Den, the tavern in Brancepeth, where Eve had invited the Burleson families to meet us.

In initially making arrangements to go at this time to England I did not know that it was a national holiday in England and a long weekend. So, the hotels, highways and scenic places were very crowded. The British take their holiday seriously.

There are six bridges across the River Tyne in Newcastle. We drove over the swinging bridge down to Durham to the Durham County Record Office which Eve had arranged for us to see. The archivist told us the early volumes of the records were very fragile and he would prefer that we viewed the record from microfilm scanners. After seeing the book and seeing how easily the old records could be fragmented, we quite agreed. Eve knew how to work the machine and obtained the records she wanted. She had had years of experience. The records of Durham County are available only from the year 1599 when Queen Elizabeth was on the throne of England. We got the first roll and on the records of June, 1601 the following entry was noted:

Willim Burlison was married the xxiii day to Ann Fostere

We did not have time to search the records further. That was a beginning point and established their presence there. It was time for us to return to Gosforth Park Hotel, where we were staying, for dinner and to get ready for the trip to the Burleson village of Brancepeth Saturday morning...Eve, in response to my inquiries, told me something of the history of County Durham and Newcastle and of the Anglo-Saxon invasion. She, of course, told me that the Burlesons were of Saxon descent.

On the way over to England I had read a short History of England by Harold J. Schultz and remembered his Chapter 2 entitled, 'Anglo-Saxon Supremacy--The Coming of the Invaders.' His opening paragraph reads:

'The Anglo-Saxon settlement established the fundamental character of Englishmen more than any other influx of immigrants, for it brought about more permanent results in racial composition than either the Celtic and Roman conquests that preceded, or the Norman invasion that was to follow. From the Anglo-Saxons England received its name, its language, its largest ethnic group, its shires, and, for the first time, political unity as a single kingdom, even though it lacked the necessary machinery for making the king powerful enough to govern his kingdom effectively.'

He pointed out that the three dominant Nordic tribes that made these invasion sorties into Britain were the Angles, the Saxons and the Jutes. 'Hailing from the Jutland Peninsula and northern Germany, they shared a common love of the sea and traced the descent of their kings from the god Woden.' (Schultz p. 10) The Saxon invasion into the River estuaries of the Tynes and Wear took place in the century before and after 500 A.D.

Tired. Jet lag or not, it was quite a thrilling experience to see recorded here at this time a record of the Burleson family in this place...Eve was right, they were 'northern lads,' and here was a part, a vital part, of her evidence... Now it was getting toward days end...and there was a message for me, 'Call Mrs. Garbik (at a given number).' I did. She said she saw my 'letter' in the paper and she wanted to tell me that Joe Burlison was a 'high official' in the Salvation Army and that he lived a few miles away in Sherburn Village, that he had driven a truck to Poland during the recent strike, and that 'everybody in Sherburn knew him.' I thanked her for the call and expressed hope that we would get to visit with him, but all the time I was thinking about that letter which Eve had written. Now I knew that it had been published in the newspaper. I did not know what it said, except as Eve had summarily described it. I determined to get a copy of the paper early next morning. I did. At the very top of the right-hand column of page 11 of the Durham Advertiser for Friday, August 26, 1983 headed 'MAILBAG' was the following letter:

'MEET ME'

'SIR,--My ancestors left Brancepeth in the 1600s, going first to London, then across the Atlantic to the new American colonies. This week I am making that journey in reverse, and mean to visit the home of my ancestors on August 27.

What I would dearly like is to meet some of my long lost cousins, descended from the members of the family who stayed here. So how about it -- Burlesons, Burlisons, Burletsons and Burlinsons (the name comes in all varieties). Will you come to Brancepeth on August 27, and meet me at the inn there, called Braun's Den, at 12 noon?

I shall be based at the Gosforth Park Hotel in Newcastle from August 26 to 28, and would be delighted to hear from my family.

IRA L. BURLESON

Birmingham, Alabama'

I would not have written the letter. I could not have expressed it so well.

We drove to Brancepeth through Newcastle through Durham about 20 miles south to the clean little village on both sides of the road that simply belonged there. It fitted. The Castle and the Church were on the left-hand side. We went into the Castle yards. It was well preserved and there were persons living in it. Inside the Castle yards were parked cars replacing the knights and their joustings. On the towers there were slits from whence the arrows could be shot. At the main gate there were iron grills let down to keep the unwelcomed out and if they got too impetuous there was a place, Eve explained, where boiling oil could be poured down upon them. Back from the Castle down the same road was St. Brandon's Church. One story of how Brancepeth got its name was that it was a slur of 'Brandon's path.' It was the path to Brandon's Church, thus Brancepeth. Of course, another more secular view is that it got its name from the wild bear or boar that terrorized the neighborhood and that the village lay astride Braun's path.

We were permitted to use the long iron key to get into the main door of the parish church of St. Brandon, Brancepeth, County Durham, England. This ancient Parish Church, as was explained by the Brief Guide For Visitors which could be purchased for ten pence, was also the present home of a 'worshiping Christian family.' The Guide explained that the tower was built in the 12th century. The Nave dates from part of the 13th century and the Church has been added to and redone in the centuries since. But it still stands as the original place of worship where the first Rector was appointed in 1085--19 years after William the Conqueror. The Church is now the Church of England. (Of course, it was Roman Catholic or maybe even influenced by the Holy Island of Lanisfarne with its Irish views when it was first established.) There were vast effigies in the Chancel. One was Robert Neville, who lived in the 14th century and is better known as the 'Peacock of the North.' Lying there, he had his legs crossed and Eve explained that he was a Crusader. Those in that time who had gone on a Crusade were marked by having their legs crossed in their effigies. Close by and opposite this figure was that of the Second Earl of Westmorland and his wife. He did not have his legs crossed, Eve observed. The Earls of Westmorland were of the Neville family who owned Brancepeth until 1569 (according to the Guide). We later visited Westmorland County in the lake country, and I could not help but think of the name Westmoreland as the name of my mother's family. Perhaps they may have been retainers under the Earl or they could have taken their name from the county from whence they might have come.

There were four rows of pews in the sanctuary, two center rows and two outside rows. We noticed encased in glass on the back wall of the sanctuary a listing of the pew arrangement and those who occupied the pews in the year 1629--while Charles I was still king and before his execution in 1649. It was about the time that Oliver Cromwell began to gain his followers in the army of England. Looking over that membership we found that on the pew in the 5th row of the left center isle sat Willim Burlinson, Robert Azel Burleson, Richard Fawdon, Henry Fawdon, Anthony White and Ralph Pinkney. Their maiden names otherwise unknown, on the pew on the 6th row on the outside row to the right sat the wives of 'Robert Azel Burleson, Willim Burlinson and Robert Burleson.' We wondered if the Willim Burlinson who sat in this pew in 1629 with his wife in her pew could have been the Willim Burlison and Ann Fostere who were married in 1601 according to the records in Durham. Eve explained that the spelling of the name meant very little. As she put in her letter, it could be Burlinson, Burlison, Burleson, etc. The clerks who wrote the name might not have known how to spell it and so just spelled it phonetically, and different clerks might hear a different sound from some and perhaps the Burlesons themselves might not have been able to write or to correct whatever misspelling took place.

In 1629, Queen Elizabeth I had been dead 26 years. James VI of Scotland, who became James I of England and who was the son of Mary Queen of Scots, had reigned from 1603 until his death in 1625 to be succeeded by his son, Charles I.

We still had to make the reunion at Braun's Den. The hour was moving toward noon, and we had not been out to look at the tombstones. I could not help but think of Gray's Elegy Written in a Country Church-Yard and the lines about the 'flower born to blush unseen, and waste its sweetness on the desert air' or 'some mute, inglorious Milton,' or 'some Cromwell guiltless of his country's blood,' as we passed among the markers. Two or three of the stones I noted and wrote the inscriptions down. One said:

'In memory of Thomas Corner of Page Brook, who departed this life June 15, 1785, age 40 years--O cruel death who could no longer spare a loving husband. A tender father dear. Great is the grief to those he left behind. But hopes be that he eternal joys will find.'

Another:

'George Smith, who departed this life February 11, 1764, age 26. Fairwell vain world I've had enough of thee and now am careless what thou say of me. Thy smiles I caught not, nor thou frown I fear, my glass is run, my head lies quiet here. What fault you see in me, pray strife to shun, and look at hand their work wanteth to be done.'

Eve noting these were contrasting thoughts of the departed, thought they were probably written by the widow of each.

The inevitable hour had come. We had found no record of any Burleson being buried in the Churchyard. Probably Willim and his family had gone following Oliver Cromwell and the Puritan movement.

We inquired of Braun's Den where we were to meet at noon. We were directed back toward Durham about a half mile and then turn left. We did and there was Braun's Den, a nice-looking brick one-story building that had evidently been there a long time and well kept. It had a paved parking place for several cars. There were two or three on the lot. It was about 11:30 when we got there. As we walked into the place, we noticed only a few people around the Bar and two men and two women seated in a small alcove. Eve quickly passed word with the proprietor, and we were given a little corner room, not entirely separated, with chairs and three tables and benches on three sides. From her briefcase Eve pulled out a poster she had prepared for the occasion. It was about 12" x 24", white cardboard with BURLESON in red letters. She posted it conspicuously on a table in the space where we were. As we were getting arranged, one of the men of the seated foursome came over. He introduced himself as Frank Burleson and introduced his wife, his mother, and her second husband. Frank was nice looking, about 50, wavy-haired, medium build. His mother walked with difficulty and with a cane. She had had a stroke. Frank was an electrician who lived in Stockton-on-the Tees. His mother's name was Grace.

Next came a fine-looking, slender, white-haired man with a nice open smile. He was Stanley Burlison with his son Raymond Burlison and his son's pretty black-haired wife, Pauling Hodgson. Stanley lived at Peterlee in County Durham. His son Raymond lived in Sunderland in Tyne and Wear County. Stanley was retired from the mines. He had been a foreman. He had served in the British Navy on a destroyer in WWII. I told him I had served on a destroyer in the American Navy in WWII. He was impressive with his intelligence and his open friendliness and in his appearance.

Then came a pretty blond lady by herself. She related that she was Ivy Burlison, whose husband, John R. Burlison, had died about a year ago. He was County Councilman from Durham--the equivalent of a state legislator in the States. She talked about their short time together, about his popularity among the people and about their reception at Buckingham Palace. She had been wed previously to a Marston. Her son was a law professor at Leicester University in Yorkshire and his wife was also a lawyer. Ivy was head of the agency in the county which took care of the homes for the elderly. She appeared to be deeply and caringly involved in other civic matters, as you might suspect. She asked if she might bring me some books of Jack's, her husband, and 'something that she wanted me to have.' I was pleased that she wanted me to have these things to share with all her American relatives. She explained that Jack had worked himself up among the people and had become a very popular leader with them. He was well over six feet tall and had coloring much as mine. She pointed out the 'green-blue grey eyes' which she said was 'typical Burleson.'

Then came a bearded, ruddy-colored, sturdy man about 40 years old who introduced himself as Nigel Burleton, a member of the British Merchant Marine, who had been to the States on several occasions. He was a very nice looking, intelligent man who talked to Eve about his Saxon background. They both agreed that Burleton and Burleson were the same name.

George came next with his wife Ann and his cousin Lilly Burleson (who was in her seventies and had never married). He brought pictures of his father's family farm home, a very nice-looking one, which had been devised to the children of his second marriage, much to the chagrin and consternation of George and Lilly. Quite gregarious, he was, and rightly so for a man of 72 years of age who had the appearance of one 20 years younger. After a Bitters or two, he showed me the paper clipping reporting the bestowal upon him of the Order of the British Empire for his heroism in WWII. He lived in Whickham in Newcastle on Tyne.

Lilly lived in Chester-Le-Street in County Durham. She was a tall lady, who spoke well and looked well, and asked a question which I failed and yet fail to answer satisfactorily. 'Just why did you choose to come here and meet with your family?' As I recall, I stumbled to the unsatisfactory response of, 'wanting to renew ties with the same family of miles away and years ago. Somehow it made me realize that we are a family, that life has its roots in generations even centuries before and that we have ties that should draw us all closer together.' She responded quite frankly to the unsatisfying answer, 'perhaps the reason is not yet revealed, but it will be.' And that was good enough for me. Whether prophetic, perplexing or just plain groping, it was near as we came to expressing a reason for our being there.

George said that he heard his grandfather say that the Burlesons were Danish. That would fit in with the Anglo-Saxon invasions. Also, he said that there were 'black Burlesons, and red Burlesons,' referring to their coloring, dark hair and red hair.

Standing at the bar and looking with interested curiosity at our gathering was a tall, slender, black-haired man and, with him, a younger man. Perceiving his interest, I walked up and introduced myself. He was another George Burlison. In that area the natives sometimes pronounce it 'Geordie.' He was a brother of John Burlison, the deceased County Councilman and, thus, a brother-in-law of Ivy. He joined the group and became quite talkative. Before the meeting broke up, because the tavern closed at 3:30 in the afternoon, he had become so enthused with the gathering that he was taking the lead in making plans for the Burlisons to have a family reunion themselves at the same place next year. The younger man was simply a 'friend' who joined the group and became more animated as time went by. The meals had been eaten, the drinks had been drunk, and the inn keepers were tidying up the place when Ivy returned with several books which she gave to me. They had belonged to John, the Councilman, and had his name in them. One of the books she brought was entitled The Chapel of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire. This beautiful book relates that the Order of the British Empire was founded by King George V and that St. Paul's Cathedral is the Church of the Order, and the Chapel of the Order is a crypt in the Cathedral. The motto of the order is 'For God and the Empire.' I believe that Ivy told me that her husband, Jack, had been inducted into the Order. I know that George showed me a clipping where he had been given such award. After giving me the books, Ivy said that she had to go and asked if I could go out to her car with her so she could give me another gift. I did. She gave me a beautiful Pitman's Lantern, with brass polished and iron painted. She said that it was over 100 years old and she thought Jack would like me to have it. I told her I would prize it very highly and that it would serve as the physical reminder of this meeting with the Burlesons. I have brought the lantern home. I carried it in a bag in my hand through London and through Shannon and through customs in New York. As I passed through the security counter in Newcastle to board the British Airways plane from there to London early on Tuesday morning, the inspector and his lady helpers remarked upon the lantern. One said, 'It is lovely, you just do not see those any more.' The lantern had inscribed on it 'Patterson and Company, New Castle on Tyne, Type B-3, 40.'

Then the Den closed and we left, thanking everyone for the opportunity to meet with them. Of course, we have not yet established the absolute connection. But for me it is enough. Eve tells us they were Puritans. They followed Cromwell and the Roundheads. They were against the established Church and for the free worship of God. It was only 40 years after the Church roll in Brancepeth that King Charles I was executed and Cromwell began his strong role. The evidence we have strongly suggests the Burlesons were his followers...

Leaving Braun's Den and Brancepeth we spent the remainder of the afternoon in the rain touring the historic city of Durham. Perched 'precariously,' as the book said, it was on a narrow neck of land dominating the wooded gorge of the River Wear. We saw the Castle, the Cathedral, the University, and were told that in the early days it was the capitol city of the Prince Bishops whose Bishopric stretched from the River Tees to the Scottish border. We were told that this city had withstood the siege of King Malcolm and King Duncan of Scotland in 1006 and 1038 (and Macbeth became more real), but that it could not withstand the march of William the Conqueror. In 1071 he displaced the Saxon Bishop Aegelwine with Walcher of Lorraine. In the booklet of the type all visitors buy 'Durham--Historic and University City' on page 10 appears this entry:

'The chief benefactor to the Art Gallery was Clement Burlison (1830-99), a local landscape painter.'
